WORLD CYCLIST VISITS ALPINE

Last week-end Walter E. Divine, who has the one and only official rating as a World Cyclist, stopped at Tappy's Motel for a short rest before continuing on his amazing itinerary.

Divine, who began his bicycle travels in Hollywood on May 5, 1962, has now covered 95,000 miles. His goal, he said, is to visit every capitol city in the world and get from its governor a document proving that he has been there on his bike. He has already covered 48 states of the U. S., all of Canada, and all of South America. Though his bicycle is equipped with a motor, he uses it only for long pulls, he said, using the foot pedals much of the time. The bike is equipped with lights for night traveling and a metal luggage box carries sleeping gear and personal items. A black fox tail swings from the bike's front end.

Divine left Alpine Sunday evening planning to travel through the desert by night to avoid the heat. Pedaling to New York City by the East Coast route, he plans to take a tramp steamer from there to Africa and cycle through that continent, thence on to and through Europe, making stops at all the capitols to secure his documents of verification.

Asked his purpose in this bike riding tour, Divine said he wanted to become the first World Cyclist. When he has completed his travels, covered the entire world, he said the story of his life and travels will be written by an author who is already at work on the book. Divine said he has been in the movies, and on many TV programs. He also lectures on his travels and on bicycle safety for schools and clubs.

Born in Oregon, Divine says Alaska is to be his final country to visit. Ending his travels there, he will rest on his laurels as the first World Cyclist. This title was

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

By BEA LA FORCE

This very civilized couple both work in town. The feelings they express are fairly representative of a large group of business and professional people. These people say it's the little hurts that are hardest to bear, both in their work and daily contacts with others. It's the important trivia of daily living that adds up to a pleasant or painful existence. Like many others whose talents and labor make the world go, this couple looks forward to weekends at home in the country where they can escape some of the jarring incidents of the work week. The lady secretary said, "it's the having to put up with casual rudeness that wears me out." The man said, "It's the small unanswerable insults heaped one on another that makes me long to go sit on a stump away from it all."

"Politeness is benevolence in trifles," says an old maxim. Perhaps it's a mere trifle when someone slams the telephone up in your ear at the end of a conversation. But that doesn't make it any less painful to your ear or less jarring to your feelings. If, as is rarely the case, it's an angry call, you may be ready for the crash of the receiver, but when it's the usual social or business call, the sudden harsh sound is an unpleasant shock and a not too subtle mark against the caller. Sure, the phoner just didn't think, was in a rush, might apologize if reminded, and would do the same thing next time. People in that kind of rush have no inclination or talent for consideration of others. They go around banging up phones, slamming doors, clicking heels, pushing in front in waiting lines, and so on. And they'd be indignant if they were called rude. Don't they always say please, and thank you, and isn't it a lovely day?

You go into a cafe for lunch with limited time to eat and get back to work. As you wait for a place, people who have eaten sit leisurely sipping a second or third cup of coffee and dangling a cigarette. You can stand till you drop for all they care. Or worse still,

Dr. Woodall Takes Associate

A new doctor has been added to the community's medical services. Dennis P. Thompson, M.D. is now associated with Dr. Earl C. Woodall on Victoria Drive. Dr. Thompson is a graduate of the University of Illinois medical school and served his internship at Presbyterian and St. Luke's Hospitals in Chicago. Dr. Thompson and his wife, Virginia, and their one-year-old daughter, Laura Faye, plan to make their home in or near the Alpine area. They are at present living east of El Cajon.

Both doctors hold office hours every week day except Wednesday and both may be reached at 445-2345 day or night.

APPLICATION MADE FOR SPECIAL USE PERMIT

Ralph R. Taylor on behalf of Dinosaur Park made application to the San Diego County Planning Commission for a Special Use Permit for a commercial sport and recreational enterprise including horse shows, museums, swimming, concession stands, fun rides, restaurants, fishing and picnicking.

Fire Commissioners Study Fire Hydrants

The Board of Fire Commissioners of the Alpine Fire District held their regular monthly meeting last Monday night at the Fire Station and discussed the problem of installing fire hydrants.

There were present Chairman, Dick Robinson, and Commissioners Phil Hall, Clayburn LaForce, and Orville Palmer. Commissioner Al Hinkle was absent.

It was brought out during the discussion that at the present time the only fire hydrants available in the District are those that have been installed in the Palo Verde subdivision which were installed at the time that the mains were laid in the street and were paid for by the property owners in the subdivision. Also that the commissioners have never established a policy regarding the installation of fire hydrants along the other mains that have been installed in the District.

In order to be advised regarding the methods that can be employed by the District for the installation of fire hydrants, the commissioners directed their secretary, Commissioner Palmer, to confer with the County Council regarding legal methods available to them.

In another action the commissioners established a method of auditing and approving statements submitted to the District for materials purchased and services rendered. The Commissioners also received a report from Commissioner Hall on the cost of installing motorized hose reels on their present equipment. The possibility of purchasing this equipment was continued to their next meeting.

Local Publication Up For Sale

Clarke Irvine, Editor and Publisher of the Alpine Sun, states that the Sun has been offered for sale for sometime and that he is anxious to find a buyer in order to be able to devote his time to doing some flying and traveling.

The Alpine Sun, which advertises itself as "America's Tiniest Newspaper," is a publication 5½ inches by 8½ inches and issued semi-monthly.

Potluck Dinner To Honor Clays

The Harbison Canyon PTA Board members are planning to hold a potluck dinner at their next Board meeting on August 29th to honor Paul C. Clay, the new superintendent of the Alpine Union School District, and Mrs. Clay.

The meeting and dinner will be held at the home of Mrs. Palthe on Harbison Canyon Road.

Mr. Taylor presented to the Planning Commission at their meeting on Friday, July 26, a plan of the proposed development on which was indicated the type and location of the facilities proposed to be constructed and operated.

The State Highway Department submitted a map showing the approximate location of the Right of Way that would be required across the Dinosaur Park property for the construction of the proposed Highway 80 freeway. A representative of the State Highway Department advised the planning commission that the right of way boundaries as shown on the map submitted were approximate and it would be about two years before final plans for this section of the freeway would be completed and the exact boundaries of the right of way required could be determined. However, he stated that the boundaries would not vary a great deal from those shown on the map.

A review of the development submitted by Dinosaur Park indicated that some of the proposed facilities would fall within the proposed right of way for the freeway and that some of the facilities would be on each side of the freeway.

The planning commission continued the hearing to their meeting to be held tomorrow, August 23, to give Dinosaur Park an opportunity to prepare and submit a revised plan that would not be in conflict with the proposed freeway.

The exact time of the hearing has not been set since it is a continued hearing but will be held sometime during the meeting which commences about 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Kiwanis Establish Student Loan Fund

The Kiwanis Club of Alpine has established an interest free revolving student loan fund to be made available exclusively for Grossmont Junior College students residing in the territorial limits of the Kiwanis Club.

Loans from this fund will be made available on the basis of need, a reasonable scholastic requirement, character and similar conditions. Monies for the fund will be accumulated by an annual birthday assessment of members and other means. This birthday assessment was made retroactive to January 1 of this year in order to start accumulating this fund immediately.

Last week 40 persons enjoyed the Kiwanis ladies' night and picnic at Flynn Springs. Tonight local Kiwanians are attending an Interclub meeting with the College Area Kiwanis Club at the Red Coat Inn. Next week's meeting will be dinner at Bailey's Cafe followed by a board meeting.

LOST LANDMARKS

THE EARLY ALPINE STORE

By Bea LaForce

Headquarters in most country communities is traditionally the general store where everyone goes for provisions and friendliness. In the Alpine of 1900 the store in the picture was such a place, and a very busy one. It also served as post office and stage station for the horse-drawn stages. Mr. Montague Brabazon, who was born in Alpine, can remember this life and very kindly told us something about those days.

Storekeeper at that time was Charley Emery, the man in shirt sleeves in the picture. He always wore a mustache and often a beard as at this time. The middle man is unidentified but it is thought that the man in the overcoat is probably Benjamin Arnold. Mr. Emery ran the store until about 1905 when it burned down.

One rainy day, a Sunday afternoon, Charley Emery saddled up his horse (the store was never open on Sundays) and rode off down the road (now Arnold Way) to visit the preacher, Rev. Duff, who lived in the parsonage, the two story house still standing on the corner of Tavern Road and Arnold Way. This reverend was quite a character, they say. He had been a missionary in China and used to put on Chinese costume complete with a long braided cue and tell his congregations about the Orient. He got himself a lively colt and tried to break it to drive to a two-wheeled cart. Everybody thought he'd be killed for sure for the colt would get the bit in its teeth and race all the way to Alpine and back. But the preacher never got hurt. And the colt never tamed down, so he fi-

There's a big spider that lives out in the hills that folks round and about call a tarantula. Wouldn't know why, we wouldn't. Looks like a spider to us. The darn things looks vicious. It can bite, too. But it's non-poisonous. Harmless that way. Black, or you might say dark gray in color.

So what's this all about? Well, years ago. Too many to rightly say, we were amoseying along out on the desert. No sand hereabouts. Just hard packed white dirt that looked like a plastered wall more than anything else. The time was in the fall of the year. The desert was sort of shaking itself offn that summer heat.

Just moseying along on horseback. Half asleep. The heat of the day was going fast. We began to think about stopping for the night. You know. The sun was low. Shadows long. It had all the makings of another day's work done. In our case the work was traveling. Alone. On horseback. With a pack burro ahead. Daintily and craftily that old burro was picking his way over this here hard packed desert. No road.

Doing so good, was the burro that we let him take care of himself while we turned our thoughts inward to things we might do when we "grew up." Shucks. Little did we dream that some day we'd write about this. And shucks again, that anybody'd read it.

Well sir. We sure snapped outa that thinking. Right quick. For here was our gentle old burro, making like the twist. Jumping stiff-legged up and down, rocking back and forth. Our frying pan, coffee pot and stew kettle were clattering their protest. What a racket in that still little desert valley! Oh yes, we came to, quick. Spurred up to investigate.

It was them tarantulas. Most of been hundreds of them. Doing some sort of gyrations on the white hard-packed ground. Being black, they sure stuck out. The sun was low, their shadows gave a guy the willies. You see each critter's shadow over a foot long. Iff'n we'd had a camera, we'd be showing a picture

ADAMS TURKEY RANCH AN ALPINE ATTRACTION

Alpine can boast of having one of the outstanding turkey ranches in the United States.

This ranch is owned and operated by Al and Renee Adams and is located on 60 acres on Alpine Heights Road.

Most turkey ranches raise turkeys to be dressed and shipped to the market, but the product from this turkey ranch is not primarily turkeys for market, but the production of turkey eggs. The eggs produced on the Adams ranch are not just common turkey eggs, but Nicholas White turkey eggs.

The Nicholas White turkey is a white-feathered turkey which was developed about seven years ago by George Nicholas of Sonoma in Northern California. Mr. Nicholas developed a turkey which has exceptionally fast growth, and which grows to the size most desired in the market, and with exceptionally fine flavor. It is a "premium" turkey on the market.

The Nicholas organization consists of breeders who breed for

Cub Scouts To Hold Picnic

The August Pack meeting of the Cub Scouts will be a pot-luck picnic held Friday, August 30, at 6 p.m. at the Alpine Youth Center.

Each family is asked to bring their own table service and one covered dish for the pot-luck dinner. Families of boys of Cub Scout age, 8 to 9½, who are interested in joining in scouting activities are cordially invited to this meeting.

There will be games and contests of skill for the boys and their parents.

There is need for an older man who would be interested in explaining scouting activities to families of boys who are interested in becoming cub scouts.

Mrs. Warren Young stated that there had only been three new recruits added in one year and further stated that the work of the adults is not taxing or time consuming but is very important and of great benefit to the boys.

Recent activities of the Cubs included a tour through Clover Leaf Dairy and swimming. The boys are presently engaged in painting bird houses for a sale to be held later in Alpine.

'Theater Day' Event At Caliente

The fifth annual "Theater Day" at Caliente has been announced by Mrs. Thomas Arnett, chairman, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Charles W. Christensen.

The festivities, sponsored by the Theater and Arts Foundation of San Diego County, will be held on October 26 at the world-famed race course south of the border.

A kick-off luncheon for county chairmen was held at the Valencia Hotel in La Jolla. Members of the county-wide women's organization were introduced to Margaret Phillips, one of the foremost actresses of the American theater and Molly Dodd. Miss Phillips holds the New York Drama Critics Award and the coveted Donaldson Award for her outstanding performances on Broadway. The two actresses appeared recently at the La Jolla Playhouse. Miss Dodd's husband, Henry Farrell, is the well-known author of the novel, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane."

The Theater and Arts Foundation, a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation, operates the La Jolla Playhouse. In addition, the organization sponsors the "Meet the Scientist" lecture series for Junior and Senior High School students; San Diego Yokohama Friendship Bookshelves; Faculty Lectures and other programs which contribute to the cultural endeavors of San Diegans.

Citizens Interracial Committee Formed

Complaints alleging racial discrimination in San Diego may now be submitted to the newly created Citizens Interracial Committee, General Chairman Dr. William Rust said today.

"The six sub-committees have completed their basic organization and have now established procedures for reviewing complaints and inquiries and recommending action," Dr. Rust said. Statements of complaint must be presented in writing, must be signed, and should be mailed to Citizens Interracial Committee, 256 Civic Center, 1600 Pacific Highway, San Diego 1, California.

Dr. William MacInnes, chairman of the new organization's Steering Committee, said the sub-committees held meetings on August 10 "for the purpose of organizing for their particular roles in the overall function of the larger committee." At that time, six sub-committees were formed to consider problems in the areas of Education, Health, Welfare and Recreation, Housing, Private Employment, Labor and Apprenticeships, Civil Service Employment, and Community Interpretation.

The Citizens Interracial Committee was created through the combined efforts of Mayor Charles C. Dail, religious, civic, labor and business leaders of the community. Dr. Rust, general chairman, is president of California Western University.

Grossmont College Students Need Jobs

Businessmen, industrial establishments, and householders, are urged to use the Grossmont College Campus Employment Service when in need of part-time help. Over 70 percent of Grossmont College students need part-time jobs to continue college studies, according to Dean of Student Affairs John A. Burdick.

The California State Employment Service maintains an office on campus which is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Students will work on jobs lasting only one day as well as permanent jobs. The phone number is 465-1684.

Next Tuesday Is Symphony Finale

Next Tuesday's concert of the San Diego Symphony will prove to be a worthy finale of the wonderfully satisfying 1963 Summer Series in Balboa Park Bowl. Arthur Fiedler returns to the podium to climax the season with his inimitable combination of classics and Boston Pops favorites.

This concert will also introduce to San Diego one of the most important young American pianists, Roy Bogas.

Tuesday's concert will open with one of the most famous marches of all times, Sir Edgar Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance No. 1." Following this, Mr. Fiedler will conduct the San Diego Symphony Orchestra in Massenet's Suite from "Le Cid." Next Mr. Bogas appears as guest soloist in Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C Minor, one of the most successful concertos produced in the past four decades, its score exemplifies Rachmaninoff's craft and imagery as a composer far more succinctly than any of his other works.

After the intermission San Diegans will be taken on a musical tour of four continents: first four of Schoenherr's delightful "Austrian Peasant Dances," then to South America for Jobim-Mason's "Desafinado" (Bossa Nova), next a selection of "Lawrence of Arabia," and finally Bernstein's "West Side

Accident Victims In Serious Condition

Three people are in serious condition in El Cajon Valley Hospital due to a traffic accident which occurred at 7:30 p.m. Sunday night, August 18. They are Laurine Daynes, Dale Cole and Merton Lunde. Cole's car driven by him, was east bound on Dehesa Road when Lunde, west bound, swung wide on the curve and hit the other car head on in a side swipe.

The accident scene was just six-tenths of a mile west of Harbison Canyon road. Highway Patrol Officer F. D. Hassell investigated the crash.

Fire Causes Water Shortage

According to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Reed of Lakeside, owners of the home in Deerhorn Valley which burned two weeks ago, the lack of water to fight the fire was the result of the electrical circuit of the pumping system burning out immediately after the start of the fire, resulting in an immediate loss of water pressure.

The owners had resided in the home for several years and moved to Lakeside about one year ago. The property was rented by the John Knapik family about three months ago.

Starlight To Give Wilson Play

Bill "Music Man" Holland will return to Starlight to direct "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," final production of the 1963 season.

Mr. Holland will be remembered for the stage excitement he created with last year's production of "Music Man," which brought accolades from the critics and audiences, and telephone and telegraph congratulations from "Music Man" author, Meredith Willson.

A new creation from the pen of the gifted Meredith Willson, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" has not been previously staged in the San Diego area. It opened in New York to a more than one million dollar advance sale, and played 15 months and 533 performances before the national touring company was formed. Since then, four road companies have broken box office records throughout the country, and a movie version is now being filmed with Debbie Reynolds as the racious Molly.

The musical story of the indomitable Molly Brown, who romped her way from rags to riches, from the mining towns of Colorado to the Continental elite of Europe and back again, will open August 29, at Balboa Park Bowl for a three-week Thursday through Sunday run.

It's School Time Again

Never as far from the headlines as they usually are during summer months, schools recapture top attention as the September opening of a new school year approaches.

Parents already are busy outfitting their school-age children with clothes and supplies. School staffs are completing final touches on building repairs and expansion. Though most California schools conducted summer sessions for a large proportion of their pupils, the fall opening is still a major community event.

This year 342,578 five-year-olds will make up California's 1963-64 kindergarten class. This is a slight increase over the 336,421 new kindergarteners last year and represents an ever-growing tide of future citizens for each community to educate.

To Californians who are most conscious of their roles as taxpayers, these facts may be difficult to face. Growing enrollments mean more schools, more classrooms, more teachers. None of these come free. It will cost more than $2 billion to run California's public schools this fiscal year.

some idle person holds down a table. Recently, I stood in a cafe waiting with about a dozen other people. We were all watching a foolish mother with an eight-year-old child at a table for four while the fat child played with a dish of ice cream she didn't want or need. She dug caves in it and made puddles with her spoon while mama cooed admiringly. This consumed 21 minutes before the manager routed them out.

That sign on cross walks which reads PED XING could be applied to one of the meanest of modern human types. When you stop your car for a Ped to X shouldn't said Ped X with a reasonable amount of consideration for the cars lining up while she strolls indolently through the safety zone? She should indeed. And some do. But many don't. The mean type takes obvious delight in making her Xing as deliberate as possible. When this happens over and over, you long to get back to the hills where there are no PED Xings and if a snake comes oozing in front of your car, well, at least it's just a snake and no better can be expected of it.

It doesn't all happen in town though. Some of the rude blows in the trifle department ignore geography. After a social evening in a friend's home you say goodbye at the front door, turn to your car, and turning back with a wave and a smile, see the porch light snap off and the door close in your face. So you leave with a miserable feeling of having been coldly dismissed. The friends didn't mean it this way, perhaps, but they weren't kind enough to avoid it, either. Examples of the lack of benevolence in trifles could make a long list. Like smokers, who at every social or business meeting, force non-smokers to inhale tobacco fumes; like party line gossips who monopolize the line for hours, like the office girl who answers the phone and says "hold the line a moment, please," then forgets you're there, and many more.

Perhaps benevolence in trifles could help reduce the consumption of tranquilizers. People who daily battle the working world think it would be worth a serious try.

Mrs. John Vitalich of Victoria Drive has just returned from a 16-day vacation trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Accompanying her on her trip was her granddaughter, Miss Margo Vitalich, daughter of the Vitalich's son, Nicholas and his wife of San Diego. Margo graduated in June from St. Mary's College at Notre Dame. Mrs. Vitalich is very enthusiastic about the islands. She says they are indescribably beautiful, and the people, both the natives and the visitors, a very gay and happy crowd to be with. They attended luaus, took side trips to many of the other islands, saw the big volcano, the Bishop Museum and many other points of interest. It was a truly wonderful trip, Mrs. Vitalich said, from the flight over to and including every moment of the gay voyage home aboard the luxurious ship, Matsonia. Hearing her tell about it makes us long to make the trip ourselves.

The E. B. Reed family of Alpine Terrace, Alpine really got "into the swim" this weekend. Their swimming pool is useable after an anxious several weeks of waiting by Denise, Jackie and little Carolyn.

A local Alpine mother and three boys were helped considerably last Friday by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Stone of Descanso, when the water pump on their car broke leaving them stranded several miles from the nearest station. The Stones went out of their way to call for assistance even reporting back the outcome of the call to ease the mind of the worried mother.

The liquid embroidery class met as usual on the third Thursday of August at the Farris home, and the time was spent painting Christmas cards on Pallon—pine cone design. The instructor Ruby Blakeney had surgery on July 26, and has not been able to attend since the June meeting. In July she was busy with the Tri-Kem Conference, and we congratulate her on receiving a trophy for high sales, and second prize for a dress and umbrella she wore at the conference, on which she had painted designs, blue ribbons for other articles she had painted, a cash prize and a decorator kit. There were people at the conference from all over the United States, Hawaii and Alaska. Mrs. Blakeney also put on the demonstration for the entire company. We are very proud to have her as our instructor.

If you have heard the clop clop of horses' hoofs on the pavement in Lake Morena, you will be interested to know it is a horse owned by Heron Romero, who owns the print shop in Morena Village. He usually rides the horse, but he has taught it to pull a pretty new one seated red and black buggy for which he sent to New York.

Marie and Nick Martin of Morena Village have returned home, after a long stay in Los Angeles, where Marie was having treatments after surgery. She is feeling fine, and is glad to be back.

We welcome back Ray and Ruth Campbell from their vacation visit back East with their daughter in Pennsylvania and their son in Massachusetts. The Campbells flew from Boston, arriving at Lindberg Field at 3:30 p.m. last Friday. As this vacation was the first time Ray had flown, he was somewhat apprehensive, but now that he's logged 6000 miles, he's a confirmed air traveler. The weather back there was delightfully cool which made their visit with their children even more pleasant. Good to have you both back here in the valley.

A short visit to "Crow-Vallee Ranch" this past Saturday by Joe and "McDuff" Vallee. Joe diligently played "work" records on his P.A. system to impress the tourists while sipping mint juleps on the veranda. Selections included "Well Diggers Lament," "Ode to an Idiot Stick," and "The Brush Cutter's Blues."

Also seen on the "hill" was Jim Walsh, staying with Hugh and Sami Arledge for a short time. Jim is an old friend of the Arledges and also the Krauses dating back some 20 or 30 years when Hugh first started building the original Krause "haus."

Well, the Knapiks are moved into Boyd's place now, so why not drop over and say hi to your neighbor and perhaps bring over a piece of furniture, an item of clothing, or something you can spare to help them set up again? In talking to John, he mentioned that he'd received the following contributions after his fire loss: $100 from the Church of Christ in Jamul, $40 from the Deerhorn Valley Civic Club, $100 from Les Street, his employer, $10 from Mrs. Cutter, his daughter's former second grade teacher in the Jamul-Las Flores School, $15.82 from the Fire Fund in Deerhorn Lodge, and elimination of his service charge for connecting his phone from Pacific Telephone Company. Come to think of it, a pretty nice gesture on the part of these organizations and people—and a further point, John and Rose were not members of the Church of Christ's congregation or the Deerhorn Civic Club (perhaps an indication we're going back to the old ways of neighborliness in this present selfish world society of ours).

The Friday following the fire, Rose had a flat with the car on the way down the hill, and coming back the A-frame broke on the car so it had to be towed into town for repairs. Trouble comes in threes, so the Knapiks now are due for a bounty of good fortune.

Profile. Exactly 40 years ago on a Sunday morning, a young immigrant girl from the Black Forest in Germany set foot on the Santa Fe station platform in San Diego after a six-day cross-country train trip from New York City to take a position as a children's nurse for a local doctor. Three years later she married a struggling young butcher, raised a family of two daughters, and assisted her husband in his business endeavors which included the Encanto Meat Market, Cecil's Market, Save-Mor Meats, Point Loma Stables, Loma-Aire Stables, Coronado Stables, etc. as well as many residence and business properties. She sang the lead in "La Traviata" in the old "Savoy Theater" in San Diego, replacing Miss Mary McCormick of the Chicago Opera Co. Today, a widow, grandmother, charter member of the Deerhorn Valley Civic Club, a member of our community for over 30 years, and owner of Deerhorn Valley Ranch, Martha (Roll) Krause expresses her gratitude to the country and community of her choice for all its bestowed upon her in the past four decades. No, not a native, but certainly one of the many that form the backbone of our community and our nation—a neighbor and a friend.

This series will appear from time to time in this column, giving a thumb-nail sketch of one of you—our friends and neighbors.

Bill and Irene Pipes and family have just returned from a lovely tour through northern California. They took their campster and traveled along with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daynes and family formerly of the canyon and now of Poway, who trailered a boat behind their campster. They spent some time fishing at Mammoth Lake and then spent a day in Yosemite. From there they drove down through Sonora Pass and visited Hoval and Idella Bostwick, also former canyonites. They then stopped at Eagle Lake for more fishing and boating and then traveled Highway 1 to San Francisco. In Los Angeles they spent the night with Clyde and Hope Wilson, more former canyonites. When the Pipes arrived in Los Angeles they learned of the arrival of their first grandchild. A daughter was born to son Billy and his lovely wife, Joanne on August 11 in Grossmont Hospital. She weighed 7 lbs., 6 oz. and has been named Annette. "Sincerest congratulations" to Billy and Joanne and the proud grandparents, and a "welcome home" to the Pipes family.

Kenny Carpenter arrived home about midnight Monday from a 10-day stay on the Rio Hardie river where he camped with the Hettingers. He reports that he had a wonderful time fishing and swimming and that he agrees with the opinions that it is a lovely place to camp. He lost a pair of shoes in the river while trying to land a large catfish (or so the story goes) and such a fish tale you've never heard. He acquired such a tan that it's surprising that he got back across the border without naturalization papers. Anyway, it's very good to have him home.

Welcome home, Jeannie.

MOTHER GRUNDY

by OLIVE WOOLDRIDGE

Dear Mother Grundy:

Here we are in Germany. We have been gone for a week now and a diary might go something like this:

Sunday—Taking off by jet, a monstrous airplane, quickly soaring high from Los Angeles, bearing east and north, right over Lake Tahoe and the Black Rock Desert of northern Nevada, then over the Rockies of Montana, then over the plains of Montana and Canada. Bear in mind that all of this can be seen and landmarks identified at the altitude of some 2400 to 2600 ft. S A S has provided a map of the approximate route and a flight report of altitude and various conditions.

S A S has also provided a world renowned meal of taste sensations that few of us have had the opportunity to enjoy. Even if one closed his eyes the flavor would bring delight, but besides this the Scandinavians fix food to please the eye as well as the palate, and for the novice the curiosity brings a great deal of the pleasure, I am sure.

Monday—Sunday and Monday are all one day, for it never got dark. It was dusk when we landed in Greenland after passing over the wilderness of South Eastern Canada, saturated with lakes and almost no roads at all, and after passing over the Hudson Bay, Baffin Island, Davis Strait, these being more icy than the western coast of Greenland, for here the coast is washed and warmed by the North Atlantic Drift. Greenland is part of Denmark. I didn't know this, and if you will look you will quickly see that it is its largest island, of which there are many. At this time of dusk the full moon accompanied us opposite the sunset, and soon it was light again and we had landed in Denmark at 8 o'clock in the morning on Monday.

Tuesday—Denmark is the cleanest, greenest little place and colorful too, that I have ever seen. I didn't see any dirt anywhere, they must have to plow their fields for farming at some time of the year, for agriculture is their chief in-nally ended up working on a freight team.

While Charley Emery was visiting the preacher that Sunday afternoon, his store caught fire and burned down. They never knew how it started, whether he left the heating stove on in his living quarters above the store or what. His family had gone away somewhere at the time and he was living alone. Soon after that Mr. Emery left Alpine.

In a short while the store was rebuilt by either Benjamin Arnold or Mr. Putnam and the next storekeeper was Mr. Edwin Snow. You can judge the size of the early Alpine store by the fact that the present one is built on that original foundation.

"That early store carried everything," Mr. Brabazon remembers, "groceries and dry goods, yardage, and all." Super-markets with their one-stop shopping aren't new, they are just copying the old country store.

Families To Be Interviewed

Families chosen at random in selected communities of San Diego County will soon be asked to participate in a public health research project.

Dr. Elmer M. Bingham, assistant director of the San Diego Department of Public Health, said the "pilot families" will be interviewed by medical personnel from the State Department of Public Health to obtain basic information on patterns of minor illnesses in San Diego County.

Anyone approached by an interviewer and asked for medical information should ask to see the interviewer's identification. The public health personnel participating in the current study carry identification from the State of California Department of Public Health.

Information obtained from the pilot families will be used later in the Santee research project to determine the suitability of reclaimed water for swimming and other water sports, Dr. Bingham said.

The project began two years ago with formation of the Santee recreational lakes. Although it is hoped the lakes may eventually be used for swimming and other water contact sports, their use is currently limited to boating, fishing and picnicking. Seven federal, state and local agencies are cooperating in the research project.

pedigreed turkeys to maintain the white feathers and the exceptionally good qualities of the Nicholas strain, and the egg producers who produce the eggs for ranchers to buy to incubate them and raise the turkeys for the market.

The Adams ranch is one of the units in the Nicholas organization which produces eggs. Locally there is a pedigree breeder ranch operated by Vernon Cornelius at Lakeside which produces pedigreed poults which are furnished to the Adamses for raising to the age of egg production.

Each year there is a regular routine for the production of eggs. The Adamses acquire approximately 5,000 day old poults. From these 5,000 poults there are selected for egg laying approximately 1,200 hens and 140 toms. Then during the laying season the hens produce approximately 600 eggs a day. The eggs are sorted and cleaned and packed in special boxes by Renee Adams, and then are shipped to turkey growers throughout the United States and Canada.

The eggs are shipped by air express and are sold with a guarantee of a minimum of 85 percent fertility. The Adamses have maintained a remarkably high fertility percentage in the eggs their hens produce. This has been accomplished in part by the proper selection of the hens and of the toms, and by a program of artificial insemination.

The Nicholas organization maintains a sales and advertising and promotion campaign which is financed by an assessment from each of the members by a contribution from them of so much per egg or per poult raised.

Al Adams has been in the business of raising turkeys for the past 17 years. The first 12 years he raised the bronze turkeys for sale to the markets. About five years ago he switched to the present program of supplying eggs from Nicholas White hens. He and Mr. Cornelius work closely on their combined production of poults and of eggs, and the nearest other member of the Nicholas organization is in the San Joaquin Valley.

Renee and Al Adams, and their two daughters, Randa and Julie, moved to their present location on Alpine Heights Road about nine years ago. Besides their turkeys they have a small herd of cattle, including a milk cow or two, which they raise for butchering.

During the breeder season when the eggs are gathered three or four times a day, are sorted, cleaned and packed, and the hens are artificially inseminated every other week, five employees are kept busy. The balance of the year the Adamses employ one part-time man and do most of the work themselves.

Food For Thought

There is an ancient superstition that peppers planted by hot-tempered people grow much faster. In the Journal of American Folklore this is borne out by an aged gentleman who is quoted as saying, "My old woman and me had a spat and I went right out and planted my peppers and they came right up."

The Art of Entertaining, published in 1895, provides this touching description of a soft-shelled crab. "The soft-shelled crab is an invalid. He is caught when he is helpless, feverish, and not at all, one would say, healthy. He is killed by the jarring of a train, by thunder, by some passing noisy cart." Not to mention the knowledge that soon many of his ancestors ended up as part of a shore dinner.

We owe the American dish Succotash to the proverbial laziness of the American Indian. An Indian invention, the association of lima beans and corn in one dish was suggested by the fact that the labor-hating red man made his cornstalks serve also as bean poles.

If you are not already supplied with them, this is the time to pay a visit to your nurseryman and get some really sun loving plants which he'll have in abundant supply. English Lavender and the newer varieties of lavender which he can show you, one is Munstead, a more dwarf-type seldom growing more than a foot high and which is excellent for along a sunny wall or on a sunny hillside. Another gray-leaved perennial which soaks up any amount of sun is the Dusty Miller. There are several of these in varying sizes from squat edging plants to taller ones used as specimen plants, some have yellow and some lavender colored blossoms, but the dusty gray foliage is the main attraction of these plants. They combine so well with zinnias and scarlet sage or any of the bright flowers of this season.

Here are the names of two shrubs should you be looking for something different. One is the Strawberry Tree (really a shrub) and the other is the Purple Hop-are quite rugged, enduring little care once they are established. The Hopseed bush can be used as a hedge and will grow up to eight or 10 feet. You can train the Strawberry Tree as a tree by cutting off the lower limbs or leave it as a shrub. I'm not so sure that the fruit is edible, ask your nurseryman about that.

Viejas Honor Camp Receives Defense Kits

The County Civil Defense Organization has delivered kits of radiological monitoring instruments to 44 out of a possible 66 stations in the unincorporated area, one of which is located in the Alpine area according to William B. Marty, county administrative officer for civil defense.

The radiological monitoring equipment was delivered to each station that has at least two persons, qualified by training available to operate the meters.

A kit was delivered to the San Diego County Honor Camp at Viejas where Carl Jensen, Patrick D. McCaffrey, Charles E. Trampash, and Eugene L. Sargeant, Jr., are qualified to operate the equipment.

The County Civil Defense Organization, thus far, has trained 1,257 men and women to operate monitoring instruments which can measure the intensity of radiation. If there should ever be a nuclear war, radiological fallout would not drop to earth in a uniform pattern. The value of the countywide network would be that the intensity of radiation could be measured in all parts of San Diego county and the areas of danger and safety could be determined.

COKE'S KITCHEN

Sour cream happens to be a family favorite at our house. Have you ever thought of using fresh sour cream as a topping for pumpkin pie or changing an everyday favorite vegetable as broccoli into a delectable dish by simply pouring sour cream over the top with a sprinkling of chopped cashews for an added treat?

Sour cream does wonders for your meals from soups to desserts. It is far from a new product. One reason all people are not familiar with the wonders of sour cream is a result of the name itself. The word "sour" may be misleading. You might be interested to know that sour cream is made from Grade A cream which has been pasteurized and homogenized. Lactic culture (which is a special strain of bacteria, the same bacteria used in making buttermilk, processed under hospital-like conditions) is then added to produce a rich, clean, medium sharp flavor. We hope you enjoy these recipes made with sour cream.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS IN ONION CREAM

- 1 pound Brussel sprouts
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ¼ cup chopped onions
- ¼ tsp. paprika
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 cup sour cream

Cook Brussel sprouts until tender. Drain and keep hot. Melt butter and saute onion and paprika over low heat until onions are tender and golden. Add salt and sour cream and heat. Pour over Brussel sprouts and serve.

LIMAS IN SOUR CREAM

- 1 (10-oz.) package frozen lima beans
- 2 strips bacon
- ¼ cup minced celery
- 1 tsp. minced onion
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ cup sour cream

Cook beans only half the time specified on package. Drain, leaving about 4 tablespoons of broth in pan. Cut bacon into ¼-inch pieces. Pushing the beans aside, place bacon pieces in broth. Cover with beans, reduce heat to very low and continue cooking until beans are almost tender. Add celery, onions, and salt and cook about five minutes more. Fold in sour cream and cook, stirring often until sauce is hot. Do not let boil.

EAST WIND

Why was this? We wouldn't know. Some kind of migration, we thought. For they made no sign of running away when we showed up. And they can run, real fast, too. We've seen them put on a burst of speed. When they do, man, they rattle. About like a small bag of bones would rattle.

The ones we saw that day might be called a herd. And they were kinda raising up and squatting down and as they moved along slowly. That made their shadows jiggle, long and shorter, longer and shorter.

The burro had smashed quite a bunch of them. Our saddle horse didn't like the idea of getting mixed up in the fracas. Shied away. We weren't about to get offn that horse and walk among the critters.

So, we heaved a rope around our burro. He got the message and left the rest of the crawlers alone.

And how about us? Sure, we had been thinking of camping hereabouts. But we moved on, Bub. To fairer fields.

No idea did we have of killing farantulas all night long. Or big spiders neither. There were so many in the herd, we'd been wore out by daylight.

Non-poisonous, the book says. Still, we don't want any 'round our camp.

Margaret Webster To Give Performances

Margaret Webster, outstanding creative artist in contemporary American theater, is scheduled for two performances at the Old Globe Theater, Balboa Park. She will appear as the final presentation of the Festival Concert-Theater Series Monday, August 26, at 2 and 8:30 p.m.

Miss Webster will present her solo performance of "His Infinite Variety"—a cross section of the genius of Shakespeare, dramatizing her views through soliloquys, poems and scenes from his works.

Born in New York, Miss Webster was trained for theater in England and made her debut in John Barrymore's production of "Hamlet." In her native New York City, she has staged many outstanding Shakespeare productions including Maurice Evans in "Richard II," "Hamlet," Helen Hayes in "Twelfth Night," and Paul Robeson and Jose Ferrer in "Othello."

She co-founded the American Repertory Theater with Eva LeGallienne and was the first woman to stage an opera at the Metropolitan in New York City. She is author of the book, "Shakespeare Without Tears."

OBITUARY Burnell D. Button

Mr. Burnell D. Button, 80, died last Saturday, August 17 in his home in El Cajon. He had been a resident in El Cajon for three weeks and prior to that had resided for 11 years in the "Button Box" at 2765 South Grade Road in Alpine.

He was a native of New York but had been a San Diego County resident for 77 years. He was employed by the Telephone Company for 32 years, serving as manager of various offices in the county. He retired in 1938. He was a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America and of the Grossmont Free Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mamie; a brother, Rell Button of Los Angeles, and a nephew, Arthur Button, also of Los Angeles.

Funeral services were held Monday, August 19 at 11 a.m. at Paris Mortuary in El Cajon. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

dustry, but it must be a continual one and not nearly so seasonal as ours.

On the road from the airport to Copenhagen, on the outskirts of town were tiny little houses, bright colored, with curtains at the windows. Each tiny little house had a tiny little garden, with fruits, vegetables and flowers growing in neat little rows. Everything, at least almost, in Denmark is small, but these little houses were miniature. I don't really think a grown person could stand up straight in them but this is where the people who work in the city bring their lunches and grow their vegetable gardens and flowers.

It doesn't get dark here, at least this time of year, until about 11 o'clock at night and the city is bustling still at this hour. I don't know just when it got quiet but at 4 o'clock in the morning the scurry was on again. And all day the hustle, bustle and scurry was on. Little cars, bicycles ridden by the young and the old, men and women alike, were off to wherever they were going, and it always seemed like they were headed somewhere, not just around the corner. When the young ones are going along, they are seated securely in a basket behind their mothers. This conditioning, they really need and it will prove useful very soon for at about seven they have a bicycle of their own and they are headed somewhere, too, at first riding immediately behind Mother and if caution is necessary she has her hand on the child, both peddling along at full speed, guiding him in and out of the traffic of trucks, busses, cars, motor bikes and usually only at intersections is it necessary for the cyclist to mingle with the larger vehicles, for along the side walk, very uncrowded, by the way, is another roadway for bicycles only. And this is just as crowded and dangerous as the streets.

Wednesday—Today we fly to Frankfurt, Germany. As soon as we left the coast of Denmark, it was cloudy and stormy, and it stays intermittently rainy after landing.

And so it goes. Germany is a bigger place and it will take longer to characterize it. We have been to only two cities, other than driving home(to Bill and Elli) from Frankfurt and here we leave by Autobahn, so other than some good Rhein wine at the airport there is little so far to say about Frankfurt. Bill and Elli met us there and we have been busy getting acquainted. I like my new family and getting to know Germany a little before they leave, as we will be here some time after that, waiting for our boat from Hamburg with the horses.

This is enough for a hello to everyone and I will write about Kaiserslauter and Heidelberg next time. So far it has been so much in so little time that in order to express it I will have to take a longer time to fix the expression in my mind before I can put it into words.

Auf Wiedersehen,

MT. LAGUNA

By KATHY McMANUS

Did you notice the dirt trail across Sunrise Highway Sunday as you were drivin gthrough Mt. Laguna? The Huntingtons, Stonekings and friends were trying to get old bossy to cross the road and used an old Indian trick (which certainly worked) to make the day successful. Bossy found that little bit of trail and crossed just as planned. It seems walking on plain road made a frightening noise and she refused to cross which all goes to prove, many old-time remedies are the best.

Sandy, the petite St. Bernard of the Jack Holmes' family is expecting her first litter in just 63 days. All are anxious for the added addition to their growing ranch.

The swimming pool behind the Pine House is just beautiful and an added attraction for all who enjoy the water. Water, combined with lovely oaks and pines, make it worth a Sunday ride to view and enjoy.

A/2 Robert W. Gee is home with his wife, Marleen and son, Bob Jr. Bob Sr. was stationed at Thule Greenland for one year. Thule is a remote site, therefore Marleen and son lived at home with the McManus. The Gees left Thursday, August 22 for Parma, Missouri where they will visit Bob's parents, and then they will travel on to Hastings Nebraska where he will be stationed.

The 751 Radar Squadron held a picnic Saturday, August 17. Steak, frankfurters and watermelon were the main attractions along with all the trimmings. Free swimming was enjoyed by all of those who went into the very nice heated pool.

The Mt. Laguna Youth Group is planning a box lunch social, the date has been set for Friday, August 23. The social will be held at the Pine House patio beside the pool. Games for the children will begin at 3 p.m. Swimming is also planned for your enjoyment. Women and girls are to bring lunch boxes full of food to be auctioned off at 6 p.m. After the social a dance will be held. All proceeds will be given to the Mt. Laguna Community Church.

Ralph and Jean Christensen and their daughter, Linda are living in a house trailer while building their new home. The flooring is down and the plumbing is in, now the Christensens are about to put up the frame of their new home.

PINE VALLEY

By AMY N. HARVEY

Kay McFarlan had her left arm broken in an auto accident July 26 and will probably be unable to return to work at the Hobart House until September 1.

Cookout. Everyone invited to the Pine Valley Improvement Club picnic cookout on Saturday, September 14 at the park. Let's make this the highlight of the season. Bring your own meat also another hot or cold dish and your own table service. Let's rally around the park about 6 p.m. and then at 9 p.m. over to the clubhouse for dancing until midnight. Sounds like fun. Let's all turn out.

Mrs. Omar, the retired Pine Valley school teacher, spent three days with her father in Longdale, 93-year-old George Sedford and Mr. Sedford's 92-year-old sister-in-law, Alise Sedford, who flew out from Collingswood, Canada. A large part of the time was spent in talking and laughing about things that occurred in yesteryear.

Mrs. James Warne is once again on her feet after about 10 days of illness. Just take things easy for awhile, Bess, we want to see you hale and hearty at "trailer travel" time.

While Bert is recuperating from his operation at the home of his sister in Mission Hills, Carl Rogers is lending a helping hand to the park board and Ranger Sam Jones is assuming Bert's duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mullins left last Sunday for points of interest in Oregon, Oklahoma and Kansas. Their plans are for a leisurely drive up the coast and after visiting friends driving inland, returning home in three weeks.

Linn Howell, Mary and John Giesbrecht and Conrad Muhlhauser enjoyed the races in El Cajon last Friday. Winding up the evening at Woody's Pizza Parlor.

The Harold Gilberts are back from their vacation of fishing in the land of the sky blue waters in Utah. They even brought back some fresh fish packed in dry ice, also a hole in their trailer where a rock weighing 1000 pounds thundered down from the top of the gorge barely missing the truck and camper in which Claire, Harold and Lee, their son and Carlos Reynoso were riding.

This Saturday, August 24 the J. B. Littles are having a family gathering of 35 at the park.

Local Resident Attends Dedication

E. L. Freeland of Alpine Heights Road and a Structural Engineer in private practice with offices in San Diego, attended the dedication ceremonies at the new San Diego County Hospital last Tuesday.

Mr. Freeland, associated with the two architectural offices of Paderewski, Mitchell & Dean and Wolfe & Fifield, prepared the plans and supervised the construction of the new hospital which cost approximately $11,000,000.
