Two Auto Accidents In Alpine Wednesday

Two auto accidents occurred in Alpine yesterday. The first, a two-car accident, which occurred at approximately 8:00 a.m. at the intersection of Highway 80 and Tavern Road, resulted in injuries to three residents of the Alpine area.

The State Highway Patrol reports that both cars were traveling West on Highway 80 approaching Tavern Road when the car driven by Mrs. Bernadine Bingham of Alpine started a left turn into Tavern Road, and was side-swiped by a car driven by Mary Fox, also of Alpine, who had swerved to the left. Both cars wound up on the edge of the highway.

Mrs. Bingham, and her 9-year-old son, Charles, received shoulder and arm injuries, and Mary Fox suffered back injuries. All three were treated at the El Cajon Valley Hospital and released.

The other accident occurred about mid-afternoon in front of McGuffie's store on Highway 80. The Highway Patrol reports that Roland B. Chambers, 68, of San Diego, driving his car westerly into Alpine lost control of his car which veered off the highway and collided with a parked car owned by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sauter of the Alpine Hardware. Mr. Chambers received minor injuries but was taken to the Naval Hospital for examination for a possible heart attack. The Sauter car was unoccupied at the time of the accident and was damaged in the collision.

Property taxpayers may file request with the Board of Supervisors, if they have questions about the value of their property for tax purposes.

The County Assessors records in regard to commercial property in the Southern part of the County are partly in the Assessor's office at 248 W. Main Street, El Cajon. Empire school district, who desire information regarding commercial property should first call the Assessor's office, 442-7711, Ext. 61, to inquire whether the records for their property are in that office or at the San Diego office. Property owners desiring information regarding property within these school districts other than business or commercial property will find the records of their property in the El Cajon office.

Richard Nevins, Southern California Member of the Board of Equalization, reminded taxpayers that the San Diego County Board of Supervisors will meet as a County Board of Equalization from July 6 through July 16. The filing period corresponds with the dates of the Board's equalization meetings.

Taxpayers may secure forms for filing at the county clerk's office. A hearing before this Board is necessary before any subsequent relief can be obtained in the

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

By BEA LaFORCE

On July 1 the year is exactly half over. Thinking back over the past six months I look out at the mountains to the East and North and remember some of the brightest moments in the 183 days already spent of 1964. Some return as vivid pictures, like color slides flashed on a screen, others are grey etchings. In this pastime it works best to back-track beginning with the most recent vignette. Driving home last evening from the neighbors on the next hill, saw ahead in the car lights, a study in sharp black and white. Slowing, we watched two young skunks at play by the roadside. They were pretty little animals, bright-eyed and frisky, chasing each other round the mail box post. Their white marks looked snowy clean, their black fur inky black. Their presence in the scene seemed as natural as if they'd been someone's pets frisking in the cool evening air. Quite unaware of us, they played on, intent only on each other.

Another evening in early June, heard a low warning call outside my window, went to investigate and found the big owl who's lived here for years, sitting on the fence post looking like a wood carving in the pale moonlight. The moon, new and thin, hung just above his head. I saw his eyes move catching the yellow moonlight in their roundness. I stood very still. He kept his perch, watching me warily, so I slipped back indoors and watched him from the window. He dropped suddenly to the ground to rise after a moment and fly away. Against the evening sky a small parcel was silhouetted held in his feet. A thin black line dangled; the tail of a rat riding to its fate in the evening air.

The more than 100 yucca bloom on that hillock where Midway Drive makes a V joining Arnold Way. The 100 plus tall beautiful stalks making a staggering sum of beautiful creamy blossoms. Went past it as many times as possible to enjoy the sight. Once down wind from it caught the fresh fragrance of the flowers. Someday bulldozers will smooth that rise of ground for houses, but it will be long remembered by flower lovers who saw it this May and June as the place where the Yucca grew so thickly. A trap-door spider back again (or did she ever leave?) in her underground home cleverly camouflaged at the end of the rock wall. Put a sow bug on top her door one evening and saw with what incredible speed and deftness she reached out and hauled it in closing the door again tightly.

On South Grade Road a few weeks back stopped to gaze at a brand new pale colored colt walking wobbly-legged, but already proud to be alive and a horse. The gentle mother neck bowed above her baby, a madonna and child of the pasture. Like a vivid color picture, the huge peacock strutting about his yard in his home on Alpine Heights Road. Sun on his iridescent plumage made it look like a mass of emeralds. His exotic head, his stately posture adding up to an Arabian nights creature, unbelievable, but wonderful

Alpine Horse Show Set for August 1-2

The Annual Alpine Viejas Days Horse Show sponsored by the Alpine Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Dinosaur Park arena on Saturday and Sunday, August 1 and 2.

The Horse Show Committee announces that new classes have been added to this year's show which will be open to Alpine residents only. One will be for adults, and two will be for juniors.

A high point trophy will be awarded each day of the show to the high-point rider for that day.

The committee is currently soliciting class sponsors and program advertisers and request that anyone interested in assisting with the show by sponsoring a class for $25, or placing an advertisement in the show program, contact the Chamber of Commerce office, or a member of the Horse Show Committee.

Norman Foster, Horse Show Manager, announces that the judge for the show will be Eldon Fairbanks of Pasadena. Fairbanks is a well-known and highly qualified judge for each of the types of classes in the show which include English, Western, Hunters and Jumpers.

Tom Casey, Chairman of the Horse Show Committee, reports that prize lists are now available either at the Chamber office or from any committee member.

Alpine Kiwanis Seeks Food Service

The Kiwanis Club of Alpine is in the process of securing someone to prepare food for each Thursday evening dinner at 7 p.m. The club meets in Fuller Hall and guarantees to pay for 20 dinners. Food must be purchased in Alpine from local merchants. The job of cleaning up after dinner is also part of the arrangement. Anyone interested may obtain further details by contacting Phil Hall at the Post Office, Ross Mallette at the Security Bank, 445-2646, or Bud Cooper at the barber shop.

Rio Fails to Buy Reservoir Site

Rio San Diego MWD submitted a bid to the General Services Administration of the U.S. Government on May 13th for the purchase of 100 acres of the former Camp Elliott land for a reservoir site.

This property had been chosen as the site for a terminal water storage reservoir for the entire Rio district. Rio's engineers had found that this site would impound approximately 13,000 acre feet of water behind a 190-foot high dam.

After submitting the bid, it was brought out that the Federal agency had divided 240 acres which contained the 100-acre reservoir

Local Bank Furnishes Baseball Booklet

A unique baseball booklet, "How to Score," is being distributed by Security First National Bank thru its more than 300 branches in Southern California.

The pocket-size booklet describes in easy-to-read language and diagrams how a baseball fan can increase his interest in a game by keeping a running account of the action. Examples and definitions are given, as well as a box score of the first 1963 World Series game.

Copies are available, free of charge, at Security's Alpine Branch, to individuals or to fan clubs and Little League teams.

Local Youth Wins 4th All Star Award

Alan Mayo of Tavern Road, Alpine, was one of four San Diego county 4-H Club members to be named as one of San Diego County's 1964 4-H All Stars. This is the highest 4-H member award possible that may be attained within the County.

Alan, a member of the Sagebrush 4-H club in Lakeside, has completed seven years of club work and has been especially outstanding with his sheep projects. In addition, he has carried several other projects which were adaptable to the small farm which he and the other members of the Mayo family operate on Tavern Road.

The other three named as 4-H All Stars are Betty Hildebrand of Lakeside, James Swanson of Bonita, and Sandy Mondy of Lakeside. These four outstanding young people will represent San Diego County's 1200 4-H members at a State All Star Conference to be held in August at the University of California's Davis campus. Selection of these four was based upon personal development, achievement, skills, and knowledge that they attained through several years of active 4-H club membership.

Pre-School Clinic At Alpine School

The San Diego County Health Department will hold a pre-school clinic for children who will be entering kindergarten in September in Alpine and Harbison Canyon schools. The clinic will be conducted in the kindergarten room at the Alpine School on Friday, July 3, starting at 9:30 a.m.

The clinic will include a physical examination and an eye and ear examination of the children and an educational film for parents, according to Leo Ryan, principal of the Alpine School.

A patio luncheon and meeting was enjoyed by members of the Mt. Empire Woman's Club at the Farris home in Lake Morena on Wednesday of last week. Co-hostesses were Helen Pate and Margaret Rolland, 20 were present. On the sick list and not present were Gertrude Haskell, Ethel Hawkins, Dell Nielsen and Flora Skonberg. After the meeting some of the members called on those that are ill.

Last Thursday the members of Homemakers Club traveled to Mt. Palomar to spend the day, 19 attended. Three former members were there, and they were Cora Russell and Louise Bassett, who now live in Escondido, and Barbara Turner from Fallbrook. A picnic was enjoyed under the beautiful trees, and after visiting awhile everyone went to visit the Dome and the Museum, which was most interesting. The lupin was blooming everywhere, and it was much deeper in color than in our area.

Visiting at the Hugh Smyth home is their granddaughters, Terry and Laura Smyth from Scottsdale, Ariz., and at the Fors home, their grandchildren, Randy and Pamela Collier from Kerman, Calif.

Weekend before last Helen Pate's weekend guest was her mother, Mrs. Wirtman who lives at a rest home in La Mesa. Several friends were invited in to help celebrate Mrs. Wirtman's 93rd birthday on June 19, and they were Helen Cooper, Nona Zuelner, Marie Martin, Marie Lindemann, Goldie Davis and Bee Boyd.

Marie Martin received a telephone call from her foster daughter, Sheila Coletto last Friday that the second son, 15 months

Crest Vacationers Back From Hawaii

Mrs. Jack Huntamer of 341 Lilac Drive, and her mother, Mrs. M. D. Bryant, arrived home Saturday night from a 16-day visit to the Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. Huntamer says, "It was a wonderful trip, but I prefer our weather here, it is terribly humid there." They stayed on the Kona Coast section of the Island of Hawaii, and visited Waikiki and Oahu and neighboring smaller islands.

Special highlights of the trip included a luau at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel on Waikiki, a nine-course Chinese dinner at the largest Chinese restaurant in the world, and a visit to the fabulous "Ala Moana," outside of Honolulu. Mrs. Huntamer says, "It was very odd, to find the second largest shopping center in the United States, 'way out there in the middle of the Pacific." The travelers were also fascinated by the Polynesian Culture Center at Honolulu, where the government has re-created the ancient villages and life and arts of the Island tribes.

Utt Receives Bible In Schools Petition

Congressman James B. Utt (R-35th) has received the petition of some 50,000 constituents who urge the return of the Bible to the public schools.

The names, gathered in Orange and San Diego counties, were part of more than 1,000,000 signatures gathered in "Project America," a simultaneous nationwide effort sponsored by the International Christian Youth in the United States.

National Director Larry Miller and Dick Overgaard delivered the petitions, almost three feet thick, to the Congressman's Washington office.

Earlier Utt had submitted a bill

A kitchen shower June 16 at the Crest Community Church Chapel honored Ruth Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyle Hutchinson, former Crest residents. The shower was given by Gerrie and Jo Anne Patstone and Janice Keller, who will be bridal attendants at the soon-to-be wedding. Ruth will become the bride of Sherman "Fuzzy" Patstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Patstone of 274 Highline Trail on Saturday, July 4, at the Chapel of the Valley in El Cajon.

David Huntamer was given a swimming party by his mother to celebrate his 12th birthday, June 26. Enjoying the pool were John Vigil, John and Leslie Smiley, Terry Vance, Richard Newman, Rip Marshall, Jimmy Harmon, Buddy Henderson, Luigi Caprio, George Oliver, Jim Walker, and Rip Price from Glendale, who is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Thomas Cross.

Both Tommy Reynolds and Marty Patterson have been released from the hospital and are home. Cliff Reynolds has been transferred to the San Diego County Hospital, and is recuperating nicely. Mrs. Beth Patterson is in El Cajon Valley Hospital, recovering from last week's operation following the tragic accident of June 19.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wolff were hosts recently to Tootie's nephew, Richard Oxley, who is on vacation from Toledo, Ohio. Richard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Oxley of Pacific Beach joined him and spent last Monday with the Wolffs.

George and Evelyn Behrens are home from a three week vacation trip. They visited George's brother, Walter Behrens at Lake Tahoe, then went on into Oregon and Washington. In Hoodspport, Wash., they stayed with Mr. and Mrs. James Thurman. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thurman of 279 Lento Lane. Other former Crestians visited were the Gene Spaulding family and Steve Northrup. The Behrens went north to Victoria, Canada, and met a woman on the boat, Mrs. Groves, who had lived on the Crest for years—small world, indeed. The sight-seers returned through the Rain Forest, stayed at Yosemite Park, and were snowed out of Lassen Park at 8,000 feet. Evelyn says, "The trip was too short, but there is still no place like home."

The same afternoon that I interviewed Ernest Hemnes for the June 11 Animal Control story, he suffered a heart attack! Ernie has assured me that I am not to blame. I am very glad to be able to report that he is recuperating at home and is coming along fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huntamer gave a belated Father's Day dinner Sunday, June 28. Guests were Jeannie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Metz and their son Mattie, from Cardiff by the Sea, and an aunt, Mrs. Grace Seamon of San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Wilger, 700 La Cresta Blvd. were Crest representatives for Mission Valley VFW Post 3787 and Auxiliary at the Convention June 20 to 25 held at the El Cortez Hotel. Greg was installed Junior Vice Commander, having been elected last spring. The Wilgers moved here April '63 from Three Lakes, Wisconsin.

In more recent years Pastor Hayman has been working with the Church Extension Department of the So. Calif. Baptist Convention in establishing and aiding new churches and has been with the local Alpine church since April 19.

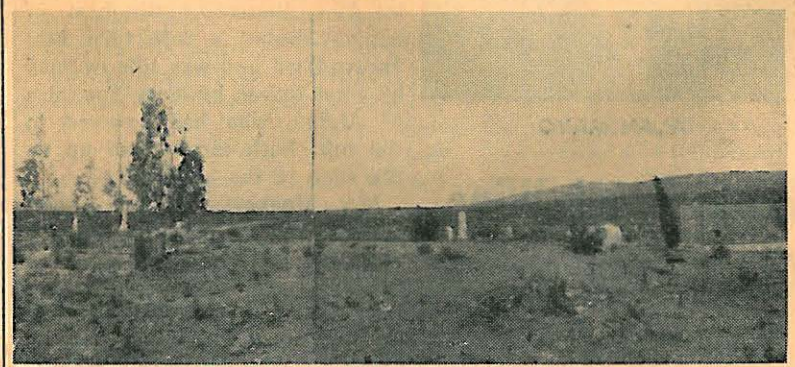

The 7:30 evening service this Sunday will have as the guest supply speaker Dr. Rolland Butler of the Harbison Canyon Baptist Church. Included in the service will be the showing of slides of the Holy Land taken by Dr. Butler.

Local Utility in Proposed Power Pool

Joseph F. Sinnott, president of San Diego Gas & Electric Company commenting on the 11-state Northwest Intertie plan recommended to Congress recently by Interior Secretary Stewart L. ECHOES OF THE PAST

THE ALPINE CEMETERY

As far as we have been able to determine this is the earliest existing photograph of the Alpine Cemetery on West Victoria Hill above the town. We are indebted to several people for help with identification of the monuments shown. Judging by the fenced plot at the far right in the photograph, this picture was taken in 1932 when that grave was new. It is the final resting place of "grandma Cuthbert." The stone reads "Mary Ann, beloved wife of John Robert Cuthbert." Mr. Cuthbert, an old timer here is best known to his old friends as "Bob." He is the father of Mrs. Grace Palmer of Victoria Hill; Mary Ann was her mother.

The earliest gravestone is that of Mrs. Sara Long who was buried in 1899. The Foss family plot began in 1903 with what, Mrs. Montague Brabazon, Secretary of the Alpine Cemetery association, thinks may be the grave of Mr. Foss, father of the local Foss family. There is no exact record however, of Foss burials, until that entered for the mother, Mrs. C. Foss, in 1906. The early records are sketchy for the most part and some of those older graves are unremembered by anyone here now. That big cross to the left in the background marks the place for Albin Horth, 1930.

John Amundson, Sexton, has worked in the cemetery since 1960 when he began by helping Joe Foss, who for years had dug the graves. For a long time Joe did the digging by hand, hauling the dirt out with a bucket. Many local people remember Joe working so, and of late years his wife, Bertha, would go help him, pulling up the buckets of dirt from the excavation wherein Joe stood to shovel it out. Now Joe rests in the family plot among the graves he helped to dig. The cemetery is now well equipped with modern machinery for grave digging. Mr. Amundson, an Assembly of God minister, says the burial ground is his pulpit. He often officiates at the funerals.

You can readily see how much the trees have grown. Those saplings in the 32 year old photograph are now giants on the hilltop. The cemetery is a well landscaped and well kept place within its own safe fence, and with roads and walls where they belong. The look of lonely neglect is gone. Credit for this goes in large part to the dedicated small group of people who, for years have worked to look after its interests. President is now John Amundson; vice-president, Verlie Boyd; secretary, Edwina Brabazon, and treasurer, Forrest Hohanshelt, while two trustees, Marion Ashton and Fred Rushing complete the board. The cemetery was offered as a gift to the Alpine Community Church in 1937 and was refused. Now a public burial ground, it is administered by the Board, who work in this capacity without pay. About three and one-half acres are improved to date, with an approximate three acres remaining in brush land. There were 30 burials last year, some from out of the area.

Bill Stelzner, of Crest, with one example of his imaginative creations from armadillos sent from South America. He also made baskets and bowls out of the same unusual animal.

MAN OF MANY TALENTS

Bill Stelzner of the Crest performed his first acrobatic stunt at the age of three, when he tumbled backward from a third-story window and landed on his feet, laughing. Seventy years later, he is still landing on his feet, and is still laughing.

Born in Kohler, Wis., Bill was one of eight children in a remarkable family. Two of his sisters were in show business all of their lives, and his "kid brother," Raymond Stelzner, is an artist of world renown, who was turning out oil paintings at the age of six, and opened his own studio at 13.

From the time he was four years old, Bill did acrobatic tumbling, high-wire work and clown acts through the East and Middle West on the vaudeville circuits and with Bevering Brothers and Sells-Floto Circus, part of the Ringling chain. As a clown, Stelzner was known as "Billy Sanders" and was a member of the acrobatic team of The Three Londellas.

Bill's mother became ill and came to San Diego to live with his sisters in 1919. Bill joined them later and sent for his fiancée. They were married in San Diego in 1924.

This remarkable man has a bewildered array of diversified talents and interests.

Stelzner has actively carried on enough sidelines to fully occupy the lives of five men. He works in wood, turning out exquisite plaques from "bits and pieces." He never had a music lesson in his life, but sings, plays four instruments, and ran a five-piece orchestra for two years in Campo, with his wife, Esther, at the piano and Bill on the drums. He built a house of his own design, including

City-County Youth Camps Start July 6

The San Diego City-County Camp Commission announces that the 19th season of Summer Camp for boys and girls ages eight to 13 will begin at Camp Cuyamaca July 6. James Riley will again be Camp superintendent as he has for the past two years.

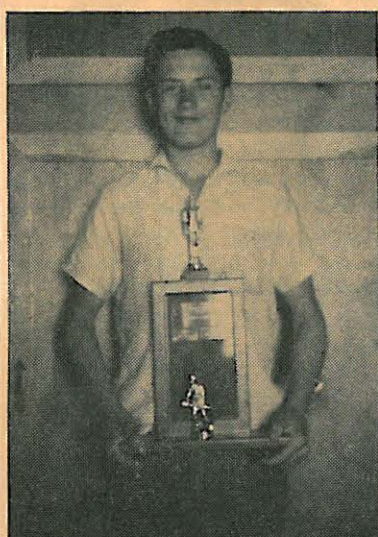

"Our staff plans to have a most interesting fun program for the summer. Included are horseback riding, swimming, star hikes, singing, archery, camp skits, square dancing, Indian lore, nature study, hikes, explorations, cookouts, arts and crafts, and sleepouts," said James Riley.

According to him, "Campers are divided into appropriate age groups. Parents are particularly pleased with the personal attention and the close supervision that their youngsters receive."

The first session of the Camp Cuyamaca is filled. Reservations for the remaining five sessions, July 13-17, 20-24, 27-31, August 3-7, and 10-14 may be made by calling the City-County Camp Commission Office in the Civic Center. The cost is $20.35 per session, which includes cost of transportation, insurance and medical.

Buses leave from the University Heights Playground each Monday morning.

CREST FIREMAN OF THE MONTH

BILLY HUNTER

Billy Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter, 2131 Eucalyptus Drive, has been named Fireman of the Month of the Crest Fire Department for June.

In the letter of recommendation, submitted by Don Coleman, Assistant Junior Fire Chief, Hunter was praised for "10 hours of recorded work on the rescue unit; winning first place in the fire truck inspection, being one of the three men who voluntarily cleaned the backyard at the firehouse." The letter also states, "In addition to the above named activities, Hunter has been on hand at all scheduled training and work days."

Fire Chief Roger Dutton says, "Billy is one of the most outstanding members of our department, and we appreciate all he has done."

County Beaches Tested Okay

For the first time in almost nine years, every recreational beach along San Diego County's entire coastline is free of contamination. All recreational waters in the county were tested for contamination in the annual survey made this spring. All bay and ocean beaches tested safe for swimming.

The last areas to prove safe for swimming are Coronado's bayside beaches which were quarantined in 1955. Discharge of sewage into the bay made the beaches unfit for swimming.

Coronado's connection to the new metropolitan sewerage system has corrected the situation. The State Board of Public Health has been asked to lift the quarantine.

GOP FOLLY

To anyone not familiar with the current National political situation in the USA, it might appear from reading the headlines in the daily press that the person obtaining the Republican nomination for President would, without question, be elected President of the United States.

Senator Goldwater got off to a running start in obtaining delegates pledged or favorable to him, and far outdistanced Nelson Rockefeller, his nearest competitor for delegates in the early stages of the campaign. After all of the states had selected their delegates it was quite obvious he had sufficient, or nearly sufficient, votes to obtain the Republican nomination on the first ballot.

As the campaign progressed and it became evident that such a situation was developing, confusion was thrown into the ranks of the leaders of the Liberal element of the Republican party; namely, Rockefeller, Scranton, Lodge, Nixon, Eisenhower and others. From their action, it appears that they took the attitude that the nomination of Goldwater must be prevented by whatever means necessary. Since Goldwater had gone over Rockefeller in California in a head-on election, he was considered out of the running. So a hard-to-get, but willing-to-serve-if-asked candidate, Governor Scranton, was elected to be the fair-haired boy to try to upset the seemingly assured nomination of Goldwater.

The published score on the number of delegates of the Republican hopefuls reads as follows.

Goldwater, 694; Scranton, 138; Rockefeller, 105; Lodge, 45; Margaret Smith, 15; Nixon, 8; Favorite sons, 85, and Uncommitted, 219.

In face of this, we wonder why the so-called leaders of the Republican party do not abide by the wishes of the Republican American citizens who selected or elected, the delegates, and by their actions have indicated that Goldwater is the outstanding favorite of most of the members of the Republican party.

Such tactics cannot possibly do any political party any good, and may result in great harm to the two-party system.

But be that as it may, it is our opinion that all of this is but an idle gesture. No such headlines hit the newspapers regarding the Democratic party. The Democrats are overwhelmingly united behind one person, the man who currently holds the office of President, Mr. Lyndon B. Johnson. He, in our opinion, will be nominated and elected President in November. Regardless of the fact that there may be many other Democrats worthy of consideration for nomination for President, Lyndon B. Johnson exemplifies the political philosophy of the majority of the Democrats, and since he now holds the office, he is the logical choice of the Democrats, and any other Democrat, even of similar political philosophy endeavoring to wrestle the nomination from him would receive very little consideration.

Why do not the Republicans take a lesson from the Democrats and unite behind the man who is looked favorably upon by the majority of the Republicans? Even though his chances of election may not be good, it would result in a united Republican party.

course of instruction, 15 hours to renew their First Aid cards. Theory and practical training in fire fighting are held every Monday evening at 7.

As a final highlight to the activities, the department is holding an open house and its fourth annual Fireman's Ball, Sunday, July 4, at 8:30 p.m. at the Pine Valley

Clubhouse. Music will be furnished by the Shados Combo, a well-known band in the area. Prizes and fun for all is the keynote and suggestion for having a safe and sane holiday.

The department wishes to express their thanks to everyone and hope that you will all turn out, to inspect the equipment, meet the members, and top it off with a gala evening.

Dear Editor:

Your article of June 11 on my old sidekick, Ernie Hemness is a darn good story as the unsung hero which he is, of course, but very little is mentioned of the other fellow who worked with him on many of his cases and on many of his own in the South Bay area during 1952. I was the other animal control officer who had this area.

Many a time I was called out to catch these hostile animals. Having been a dog trainer with W. Plass Owen and with the Dog Pound in the City of Chula Vista. I knew how to handle these rabid animals. One rabid dog had terrorized 50 persons in Imperial Beach one Sunday morning, I was called because Ernie wasn't on duty then.

This was a 40-pound male dog in the fierce rabies state who had been running up and down the street snapping and biting everything that moved. Many people were teasing him at the time I got there, he was coming my way; swiftly I opened the cage on the panel truck and stood by with my "come along" or Jimmy-pole.

The dog charged me as I looped him about the neck and into the cage he went. He died two days later. I netted some 250 dogs and cats during the short time I was on the force and was only bit once. Ernie and I roped everything from cats to goats during this outbreak.

We were connected with San Diego County Department of Public Works, then under the leadership of the late Doctor Lamarr. Although I never got any medal or such for my act that Sunday, I did receive a small write-up in The San Diego Union but I wasn't after any glory, only that rabid dog.

Yours very truly,

to see. A gopher snake changing its skin in the cool shade of a sumac tree not six yards from where I sit. I had not realized this skin changing job could be a difficult one for the snake or take several hours. He struggled in a quiet way, took over three hours. Finished, he left the shape of himself stretched on the ground, fragile, colorless as a plastic sack, and with only one small tear near the head.

In grey tones: The silent look of some of the old homes we used to visit with friends who've moved away. The empty place in the pasture across from one such place on Tavern Road, where a small grove of wild plum used to grow making a frosty white bouquet of bloom in the springtime, and a vivid red and orange one in the fall, green all summer, and a Japanese print of sticks black marked against the sky in the dormant season. Nothing there now. A blank space and a reminder of how time changes things. But there are always the mountains unchanged and shared by us all, the view a little different as seen from each doorstep. We ought to spend more time looking at the mountains and the sky. They'll always be here, of course. But we will not.

HORSES! HORSES! HORSES!

By MARGARET LOWTHIAN

Area Appaloosas took the honors in the Appaloosa breeding classes this week at the National Horse Show at Del Mar Fair. Gregg's Pancho Villa, three-year-old stallion owned by Ken and Linda Johnson of Mt. Laguna and Johnstown, was Champion Stallion. Pancho is trained by Jack Llewlyn of the Hillsdale Stables at Johnstown, and this is his second championship win so far this year.

No reserve championship awards were given, but Willow Glen Farm's Blue Admiral won the two-year-old stallion class and was second to Pancho, and their three-year-old mare, Florida Lea IV, was second to Bonnett.

We have been so busy getting the prize list ready for the Western Appaloosa National Open Horse Show to be held at Santa Barbara on August 21-22-23, that we have not been able to get out to the Horse Show as often as we would like. By this time next week, it will be all over, and we hope to have some more of the wins for you.

Speaking of prize lists, the one for the Alpine Viejas Days Horse

Show is now available. This show will be at the Dinosaur Park ring on Saturday and Sunday, August 1 and 2. The judge will be Eldon Fairbanks, well-known to local people as he judged the show last year. A total of 42 classes are offered at this show, with the Saturday performances all Western, and the Sunday performances all English. Three classes are open to Alpine residents only—one in Western Pleasure 18 and under, one in Western Horsemanship, 18 and under; and one for adults 18 and over for Pleasure horses. It is my understanding that the adult class is open to both English and Western Pleasure horses. I do not quite know how Mr. Fairbanks will be able to judge this class, but if anyone can do it, he can. Another question, can the same horse and rider show Western for half the class, take time out to change clothes and tack, and then finish the class English? Maybe they should have had two classes, one for Western Pleasure and one for English Pleasure.

Mark Beresford is busy working two local horses to get them ready for the Alpine show. One is the Casey's young gelding, and the other Ruth McManus' young Tennessee Walking horse. Mark is now available to work with local horses and riders. He charges $2 per half hour to train horses, and

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zuelke of Alpine Heights Road enjoyed entertaining members of Olga's family here from Chicago last week. Her father, Mr. Joseph Tamelis, 81, was persuaded to make the trip by plane for his first plane ride. He stated that he held the plane together all the way by hanging onto the arm rests, but actually he enjoyed it. With him were Olga's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Booker. The visitors stayed for a week and enjoyed many sightseeing trips in the area and to Tijuana. Mr. Booker is seriously thinking about buying a place in Alpine to which he can retire and get away from the cold Chicago winters.

Mrs. Tom Nichols of South Grade Road spent her day off this week taking her children to the beach for swimming. Joanne is busy these days in the new home the Nichols have recently built, and is currently planning the landscaping. We know she will appreciate any of those geranium slips, etc., that you were going to throw out.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Colby of Tavern Road visited with friends in Hemet last weekend (Friday), and then went on to Idylwild for Saturday and Sunday since they were so close. They report that the weather was perfect with cool, pleasant nights.

Jack and Betty Isaacs, and their children, are enjoying a visit in Kansas City. They drove, and on their way spent a few days at Scottsdale, Arizona, with Betty's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Moore. Then to Kansas City to see Jack's family. While Betty and the children remained in Kansas City, Jack flew to Montreal to attend an insurance meeting there with Paul Parsons, also of Alpine. After the meeting, Jack returned to Kansas City to drive home from there with his family.

Red and Ethel Andrews of the Casino Inn on Highway 80 have just finished the construction and decorating of an addition to the Casino. The addition is a room at the front of the original building, that was originally planned for a storeroom, but may be used for some other purpose.

DEERHORN VALLEY

Just a reminder—Dick Winterowd, our area's F. F. foreman for the State Division of Forestry, passed through last week posting fire prevention signs, and shortly he'll be checking our ranches and homes for fire hazards, so let's pitch in and give him a hand by eliminating hazards, screening chimneys, and clearing an area 30 feet in radius around buildings and outdoor fireplaces. We're plumb in the middle of the fire season now as evidenced by the fire over Dulzura way the beginning of this week, so let's give Dick a hand, and by helping him, help ourselves.

Bob and Helen Daly and their children spent the weekend in the Valley prior to Bob's shoving off with rig, the Texan VW parked in front of the Lodge, early Tuesday morning on a cross-country trip to Boston.

Neighbors seen up and around the Hill this past weekend included John and Faye Clark (lives kitty-corner from Charlie Bratton's ranch in the old Wilkinson place), Joe and McDuff Vallee of Chula Vista and Crow-Vallee Ranch, and Connie Crowley and her son, Mike also of Crow-Valley Ranch and Spring Valley.

Also up for a week's vacation of beaucoup work betwixt a little rest and relaxation on their place on Monte Robles Acres, were Sarah and Dave Barnum and their children of National City.

A howdy to Sally and Bill Grogan, owners of Harmony House in Chula Vista, and former residents of our community, who were up here this week visiting Jim Wolfe on his ranch on Mother Grundy Truck Trail.

The flowers, plants, shrubs, and trees certainly are an eyecatcher to local as well as city-folk driving the road up here—a vote of thanks to Jane and Frank Meanea from the community for all the hard work we know is involved in keeping their place in showplace condition. In mentioning neighbors that deserve praise for keeping their little bit of California green and beautiful by diligent use of "Norwegian steam" and "green thumbs," we should extend our thanks to Agnes and George West, Bessie and Joe Eaton, Agnes and John Amundson, and Ruth and Ray Campbell.

Home is the sailor, home from the sea," at least for a short stay—good to see Spence Hewitt up on the Hill again, visiting his mother, Mrs. Delta Hewitt, of Imperial Beach and our valley.

In the night club circuit, caught a glimpse of Marta Krause, Jim Wolfe, Rory and Roy Wallin down at the Red Coat Inn as they unexpectedly ran into Earl Woodhouse Jr, Woody and Ralph Okey, part-owners of Hidden Valley Ranch. The quartet were in the big city celebrating Mrs. Krause's 21st (?) birthday.

We've all heard of young women who take ocean voyages hoping to find husbands and young men pursuing young women in the same manner, but we believe we have one that outdoes both of these. A beautiful young female flew in by jet from Newport News, Va., last Friday, to spend some time with the McConnells. This female failed in her pursuit, but the hangover of spring is still in the air, and she is still hopeful. For your information, this beautiful young female is Tiki, Del Jenkins' beautiful Siamese cat.

Back from Fresno and 10 days of concentrated schooling, the weather, 110 degrees, so it seems cool to us now here at home, or maybe I should say, at least not too hot.

The school we went to should be written up in Margaret's column, "Horses, Horses, Horses," because that's just about what it was. If we didn't think horses before we sure do now. Our trip was a family one and Don took the full 10 days in the Farriers School; I took Genetics and Physiology, Nutrition, Judging and Management and Selection; Kathy took the Genetics, Horse Health and Disease; Marsha took Training and Care of Feet; Jeannie took Horse Health and Disease; Mary Alice took Training. The four girls and myself took Beginning Equitation along with all of this. Our days were full and steady, starting for breakfast at 5 a.m., classes starting at 6 a.m. and over at 9:30 p.m. We juggled the rest of our meals in between and got as much rest as we could. Mary Alice had the honor of helping the family finances by working in the stables when she wasn't in class.

The staff of professors was excellent, an inspired group and each the best in his field of Horse Science. Our own education was limited only by the amount we ourselves were capable of absorbing. I hope we can pass some of it on 4-H'ers and other interested groups. I find that in the whole United States there is less than

The trip began in San Diego and has included an extensive tour of Southern Europe.

Warren and a classmate at San Diego State College, Greg Satre of British Columbia, embarked on the long ride last Feb. 15. Both boys took off the spring semester at San Diego State and cycled from Brawley to Brownsville, Tex., where they put their bikes and sleeping bags aboard the Yugoslavian freighter Sibenik, March 15, and sailed to Marseilles, France.

From France the boys pedaled to Italy. They went through Rome and down to Brindisi where they boarded a ferry to Greece. The two celebrated Satre's 21st birthday at the Parthenon in Greece.

Smith and Satre then traveled to Yugoslavia where they spent some time in Belgrade. They left Belgrade for Rijeka, located on the northwest coast of Yugoslavia on the Adriatic Sea, where they planned to visit some of the crewmen they met on the Sibenik.

The final lap of their tour will be across northern Italy, Switzerland, southern France and into Spain. They plan to board a freighter in Spain sometime next month which will dock in Canada. The two boys plan to pedal across the provinces to Williams Lake, British Columbia, which is Satre's home. They will meet Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their other two children. The Smith's plan to leave San Diego with a new 15 foot trailer and do some sight seeing of their own on their way to B.C. Warren will have a free ride all the way back to San Diego with his parents.

Smith and Satre report most of the roads they have encountered on their four-month tour "have left something to be desired." They said they have enjoyed the friendliness of the people they have met along the way, but the conditions of many of the roads has caused them some problems keeping tires in good condition.

Both boys expect to re-enter San Diego State College this fall. Smith is a geology major and Satre is studying to become a teacher. Satre plans to teach in British Columbia.

COKE'S KITCHEN

According to the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, the annual value of California's rhubarb crop is nearly $500,000 and our State is one of the leading producers. In other areas most rhubarb is produced in forcing houses.

Alpine's fine climate agrees with this beautiful plant and if your garden is well supplied with rhubarb this spring, give these pie recipes a try. You probably have a special recipe already but these were given to Coke's Kitchen to share with you—they are a little different and by the way very delicious.

RHUBARB PIE (Mt. Laguna style)

1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sugar
1 cup finely sliced rhubarb
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
1/2 cup chopped raisins
1 T butter or margarine
Salt

Combine sugar, egg, add rhubarb, crumbs, few grains salt, raisins and butter. Mix thoroughly. Pour into pastry-lined pie shell, cover with top crust. Bake 425 degrees about 45 minutes.

RHUBARB CHEESE PIE (Spring Valley Style)

Rhubarb filling, 1 pound rhubarb,
1/2 cup sugar, 1 T flour
Cream-Cheese Layer—3 packages of cream cheese (small), softened, 1/2 cup sugar and
2 eggs.

Topping—1 cup sour cream, 2 T sugar and 1 tsp. vanilla.

Make your favorite pastry. For rhubarb filling, wash, trim rhubarb into 1/2" slices, approximately 3 cups. Sprinkle sugar and flour over; toss lightly to mix. Spoon into shell. Bake in hot oven 425 for 15 minutes, remove from oven. Lower heat to 350. While rhubarb filling bakes, make cream cheese layer. Beat cream cheese with sugar until fluffy, beat in eggs, 1 at a time until creamy-smooth. Pour over hot rhubarb layer in shell. Bake in moderate oven 350 for 30 minutes; remove from oven.

Make topping; blend sour cream, sugar and vanilla in small bowl—spread evenly on top of hot pie. Let cool completely on wire rack before cutting.

RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY PIE (National City Style)

1 pound rhubarb
2 cups strawberries
3/4 cup sugar
4 T flour
1/4 tsp. pumpkin-pie spice
1 T butter or margarine

Wash, trim ends and cut rhubarb into 1" pieces. There should be about 3 cups—wash, hull and halve strawberries. Combine rhubarb and strawberries in bowl—sprinkle sugar, flour and pumpkin-pie spice over; toss lightly to mix. Place in pastry-lined dish and dot with butter, with top crust. Bake 400, 40 minutes. Cool completely on a wire rack before cutting.

RHUBARB-ORANGE PIE (Pine Valley Style)

1 1/2 pound rhubarb
(makes approx. 4 cups)
2 eggs
1 3/4 cups sugar
4 T flour
1/4 tsp. mace
1/4 cup orange juice

Beat eggs slightly in large bowl; blend in sugar, flour, mace and orange juice; stir in rhubarb and spoon into prepared shell with top crust. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees for 50 minutes or until pastry is golden and juices bubble up. Cool completely on a wire rack before cutting.

ALPINE GARDENER

By JEAN McCULLOUGH

Old Sol is really pouring his heat down on us now that the calendar says summer is here. And this means we have to see that we have adequate mulch around our plants to help conserve the water we are forced to give the plants. Even at that some plants, such as, fuchsias, begonias, impatiens, and some of those tender plants, may need an overhead mist spraying in the morning or late afternoon.

Here are a couple of ideas you might try if your dahlia bulbs are being chewed by small varmin. Plant a fresh carrot near them. The wire worm, etc., will attack the carrot first. Pull the carrot up every few days and collect and destroy the pests.

Then would you like to plant

plumbing and wiring, while on crutches.

Bill became interested in taxidermy and turned his talents in that direction when for 20 years he operated the Western Taxidermy Studio in Campo. Here he developed his own technique for mounting small reptiles intact. He skinned a horned-toad through its mouth, inserted a flexible artificial body of his own composition through the mouth, and when it dried, there was a "horny-toad" winking at you, without a mark on him and no incision in the skin.

During this period, Bill was also a prospector and rockhound, and started a fabulous collection of minerals. The studio was closed during the war while Bill and Esther worked as civilian employees at Camp Lockett.

Bill suffered a severe heart attack in 1946. His doctor told him to go to bed and stay there, or die. Bill's revealing reply was, "I may be going to die, but I will do it on my feet—I refuse to die by inches."

The Stelznern moved to Lakeside, and from 1949 to 1959 they owned and ran the "Daylily-Iris Gardens," a nursery. When they sold the nursery, they moved to the Crest, and the Stelzner's present home was built from Bill's own design and specifications.

Unable to continue his strenuous activities, and equally unable to remain idle for five minutes, Bill began his present labor of love, combining his talents for taxidermy and art. His home on the Crest is filled with examples of his work.

Using, as he says, "anything that grows," seeds, pods, sticks, stones, bones, claws, twigs, feathers and a fabulous imagination, he has created tableaux of exquisite beauty, from animal, bird and fish scenes so real you smell the flowers and avoid the snakes, to fantastically ridiculous "goony-birds."

Bill hopes someday to find space enough somewhere to let the youngsters of the Crest come and give full rein to their imaginations. He says, "If I can give the kids something constructive to do, and help keep them out of trouble, I'll be satisfied."

"Just to keep from getting lazy," Bill recently built a beautiful set of used-brick walls around his home. He is currently spending his "spare time" constructing a patio and barbecue in his backyard, terracing and landscaping the front, using his know-how in planting his property, which will be a visual gem when he is finished.

But a man like Bill Stelzner is never really "finished"—not with beauty—not with constructive talent—not with life.

several small onions, or buds of garlic about six inches or so from your roses to act as a pest repellent?

These ideas are hearsay, but they work. I have not tried them as I have only one rose and it is in a redwood tub.

It's time to be preparing places to plant those new iris, or the ones from the old clumps you will be dividing. Dig holes about 10 inches deep and about the same width across for iris have quite a root spread. Put a scant handful of bonemeal in the hole and work it in a little and water it well. Then, when you are going to plant the iris, put a little soil and sand on the bonemeal to set the plants on. As you are filling in the hole, keep lifting the plants until the rhizomes (or bulbs) are just an inch below the top of the ground. Firm the soil and water, but do not soak after the plants start to grow.

Handy Household Hints

(For Harried Homemakers)

A real ironing short cut is yours if you hang on one line all the clothes you are going to iron. When they're dry, sprinkle them with a fine spray garden hose, all at once. Then just roll up each piece as you remove it from the line.

When ripping machine stitching, a good pair of tweezers is a real help. Thread will pull out easier, and make the work much faster and less tedious.

To keep dust from accumulating in corners, shellac the baseboards in your rooms. Not only will this make sweeping easier, it will make cleaning the baseboards themselves a relatively simple task of merely running a cloth over the surface from time to time.

Homemade solution for cleaning painted walls can be conjured up by combining two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia, and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap—just apply with a soft cloth.

Trick for the wall switches. The space around light switches sees a lot of traffic and, therefore, may be smudged frequently. After the space is cleaned, a thin coat or two of clear shellac will make the area around the switch easy to clean—an occasional quick dab with a damp cloth will do it.

Dip rusted metalware in pure cider vinegar, let it dry for a few days, and just wipe away the remaining, loosened rust particles.

Health Dept. Warns On Food Containers

The San Diego Department of Public Health has warned the public against using cadmium lined containers for the preparation, storage or refrigeration of acid foods.

Dr. J. B. Askew, director of public health, said the only suitable ware for such foods is suitable steel, aluminum, glass, crockery, or enamel ware that has no breaks in the enamel.

Twenty-three school children became ill on a school outing last week, Dr. Askew said, when they drank pink lemonade served from a thermos type metal container. He added that the container was a cadmium plated war surplus container, apparently designed originally to hold packaged foods.

The lemonade had remained in the container from 8 a.m., when it was prepared, until 11:30 a.m. when it was served. Within three-quarters of an hour after drinking it 23 of the 32 children on the outing became ill with stomach cramps and vomiting. Dr. Askew said the nine children who did not become ill had consumed very small amounts of the lemonade.

He pointed out that the three and a half hours the lemonade had been in the container was sufficient time for the citric acid in the lemonade to dissolve cadmium from the container. "If the lemonade had been prepared earlier and refrigerated in the container overnight," Dr. Askew said, "the cadmium poisoning could have been much more serious."

Dr. Askew said a similar case Park became ill after drinking occurred in San Diego in November when 20 to 30 teenagers attending a square dance in Balboa orange punch served by a caterer from a cadmium plated copper container. Dr. Askew said a laboratory report on the chemical analysis of the punch indicated that it contained 42 ppm of copper and 115 ppm of cadmium.

The Balboa Park episode, Dr. Askew said, was the first case of cadmium poisoning he had been aware of in San Diego County.

"It now appears," he said, "that war surplus containers and containers made during war years may be lined with cadmium instead of zinc, which was then in short supply, and may pose a threat to the public health. Our advice is to use stainless steel, aluminum, glass, crockery or unchipped enamel ware for cooking, storing or refrigerating acid foods."

Dr. Askew said persons in doubt about a container could take it to the Department of Public Health at Civic Center in San Diego or any of the health centers in Oceanside-Escondido, El Cajon, Chula Vista, East San Diego, Southeast San Diego or Pacific Beach where a public health sanitarian could test it for cadmium.

Nevins recommended that the taxpayer who plans to appear before the County Board should have a prepared statement showing that his property is not valued on the same basis as similar property. Evidence of the market value of the taxpayer's property is also useful.

After the taxpayer has presented his evidence, the assessor or one of his staff may make a presentation as to the basis for his valuations. Courts in California have generally upheld County Assessors in their valuations.

"By carefully making comparisons of neighboring property of like market value, taxpayers will usually convince themselves that the assessor has been fair," Nevins said. "If property assessments appear out of line after careful comparisons have been made, taxpayers can look for some measure of relief"

PINE VALLEY

By LADONNA MUHLHAUSER

At the yearly meeting of the Pine Valley Water Company it was announced that John Pingley had asked for a year's leave-of-absence from his position as Commissioner and Harold Gilbert will fill in. Gilbert's phone number is 8384 in case of water troubles. Glen Holbert, president, also reported a new well is being dug. This well will be near the creek bed and is being hand dug by Espinosa of Escondido, one of the few hand well diggers left in this section of the country. At the time of the report they were down 39 1/2 feet.

What was planned as a three-day visit turned out to be about 10 days. Mrs. Edith Brown of Desert Center arrived on Friday to visit her sister, Bertha Rogers. On Saturday Bertha cut her leg so badly it required several stitches and doctor's orders to stay off that foot for a week, so Edith stayed to be nurse, cook, dishwasher and what have you.

Mrs. Helen O'Marr took a bad fall on Friday, she was taken to the hospital for x-rays and am happy to report she is home, no broken bones but mighty stiff.

Catherine and R. T. Hadley were happy to welcome her sister, Mary Shephert of Fontana, for a short visit.

Harry Darsney is home after a six weeks tour of the East. While there he visited with his daughters and visited in Philadelphia. When Mr. Darsney left Pine Valley he had the camper filled with clothing, cooking utensils, rakes and shovels to be given to various Indian settlements in New Mexico. A short while after his returning home he lost his peacocks when dogs got into the cage.

Miss Leta Stewardson was found in her home, by Deputy Ralph Nunnery, suffering from shock. She was a familiar person around the valley and Harry Kendricks missed her coming into the store so he called Nunnery who checked on her. She is in the county hospital in a fair condition.

The July meeting of the Improvement Club will be Saturday, July 11, because of the 4th of July dance.

Mrs. Virginia Walker and daughter, Brooke, have just arrived home after a delightful week in Sacramento.

When the fish bug hits these gals they really go all out. Vickie Cartwright went down to Salton Sea to join Olive Wallace in a day of fishing in that 115 degree weather.
