Fiberglass Horses Announce Alpine Horse Show This Weekend

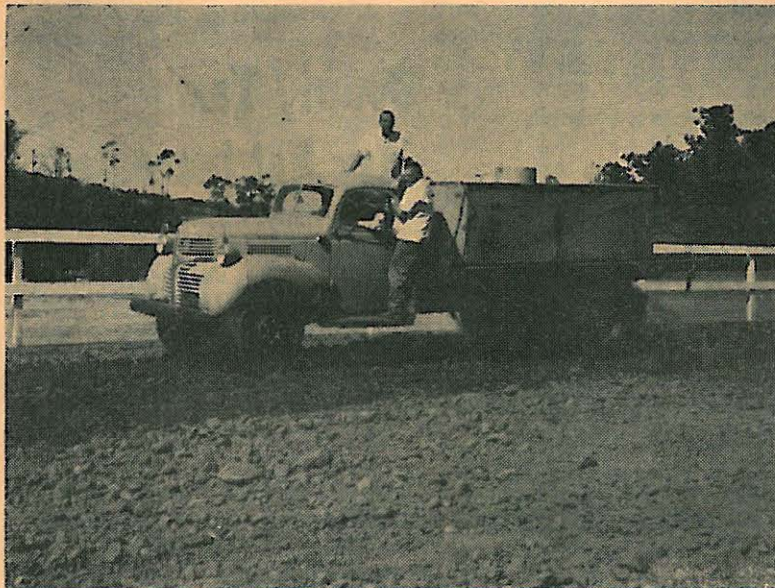

Life-size fiberglass horses which have been erected along Highway 80 from one end of Alpine to the other display signs announcing the Alpine Viejas Days Horse Show coming up this Saturday and Sunday at the ring at Dinosaur Park. The horses have been donated for this purpose by Alpine's unique industry, Fiberglass Menagerie, owned and operated by Jim and Mildred Rorie, which makes life-sized fiberglass animals of many species. Some of the horses on display are beautiful rearing horses which demand the attention of all passers-by, and are an outstanding method of announcing the horse show.

This week has been a busy one for the Horse Show committee. Every day work has been in progress on the conditioning of the ring. Having the soil of just the proper consistency and dampness is very important for the best performances of the horses, especially in the hunter and jumper classes. Other last minute jobs include cutting down the weeds around the ring area, erecting shelters to create some shade for spectators and exhibitors, final arrangements of lining up the many persons who will work hard for the two days of the show making sure that everything goes smoothly. All of this work is being done under the direction of Tom Casey, Horse Show Committee chairman, and Norman Foster, Horse Show Manager.

Because entries for the show will be made during the show, no one can give an accurate state-

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

By BEA La FORCE

Spent Sunday afternoon visiting my oldest living female relative, a second cousin age 92. She can remember many interesting anecdotes about the days of her youth and tells them with an engaging twinkle in her bright eyes. She can remember gas lights, when, said she, a heart-broken lady could commit suicide simply by blowing out the light and plugging the key-hole in her room. There were no sleeping pills. You didn't admit you couldn't sleep because sleeplessness was said to imply a guilty conscience and led to speculation as to your behavior.

Her idea of an appropriate gift for a lady is a nice "pocket handkerchief." Her idea of a no-lady kind of female of any age is one who goes out minus a dainty handkerchief held just so in her hand. It was not merely a utilitarian object to the ladies of her youth, says my cousin, but was also a dramatic prop. They used it to express their emotions. There was, she confided, a whole set of signals one could give with the aid of the dainty bit of linen, or voile and lace.

When frightened, or more often pretending proper fear, the lady twisted the hanky between her fingers. There were styles for this in her circle. Some made ropes of the fragile scrap by twisting it on the bias beginning at opposite corners. The degree of maidenly terror was registered by the tightness of the twist. A real gone doll might twist her hanky in two or tie it in a hard knot. This was a very frequent occurrence at the shows put on by the Drama Societies of the day when the drunkard was no comic character and unwed mothers were driven out into the snow.

Indecision was radared to the knowing by the hankies being balled up tightly between the trembling and prespiring palms which kept it hidden and meant the lady would not easily consent to the intimacy of holding hands on the buggy ride. When a hanky-wise person saw the dainty white square smoothed out flat on a lady's lap and very precisely pleated or folded in squares, he knew he'd met a cool-headed bargainer, one whose disciplined mind would rule every situation. If she

ALPINE FIRE BOARD MEETS WITH RATING BUREAU ENGINEER

The Board of Fire Commissioners of the Alpine Local Fire District met with Mr. William Paulson, Engineer representing the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau, last Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Paulson was here for the purpose of reviewing information regarding the present status of the District which had previously been forwarded to his office, and to obtain additional information to be used in determining the fire rating for the District.

Alpiner Wins First In Photo Contest

Bob Rowan of Acacia Lane, Alpine, won a first prize in the Pets and Animal class in the photograph contest now being conducted by the San Diego Union. His winning photo was a shot of a dog named Beep, which opens the door with his nose. The appealing pose and the pensive look in the dog's eyes won the favor of the judges.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rowan of Acacia Lane, who have been Alpine residents for many years. Ed Rowan is the manager of Florence's Market in Alpine.

Bob Rowan is home this summer on vacation from Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara where he is studying business and professional photography. Bob and his schoolmate, John Gilroy, also of Alpine, have been running a business in photography here this summer. They are specializing in family and children portraits, taken in the subject's own home. They will be returning to Brooks in September.

San Diego Zoo To Receive Otto Gift

The San Diego Trust and Savings Bank, executor of the estate of Elmer C. Otto, resident of Alpine who died last year, has submitted to the Superior Court a number of items which are recommended to be distributed at this time.

Mr. Otto, in his will, left one million dollars to the San Diego Zoo. This sum is due to be paid to the Zoo possibly this week.

The Zoo officials state that no decision has been made on how the bequest will be used. A special committee of their Board of Trustees is now considering several plans.

Dentist Plans Alpine Office

Dr. John S. Campbell, San Diego dentist, has purchased acreage on South Grade Road west, at a point near Honey Hill, with plans for a dental and, possibly, a medical office in the future.

Dr. Campbell stated that he hopes to secure a medical doctor to join him in offices there, but at last report has not found anyone. He says he wants to locate in Alpine as soon as possible; his immediate plans rather dependent upon water and sewer connections.

Dr. Campbell, who has just finished his term as president of the San Diego County Dental Society, promises to keep us posted as to actual plans as soon as they are firm.

Phone Co. to Stop 4-Party Lines

The Pacific Telephone Company announces that they have received State approval to substitute 2-party lines for all of their 4-party lines now in service.

The first change over will be made immediately in all of the City of San Diego exchanges. The switch over will then be continued to include all of the exchanges in San Diego County.

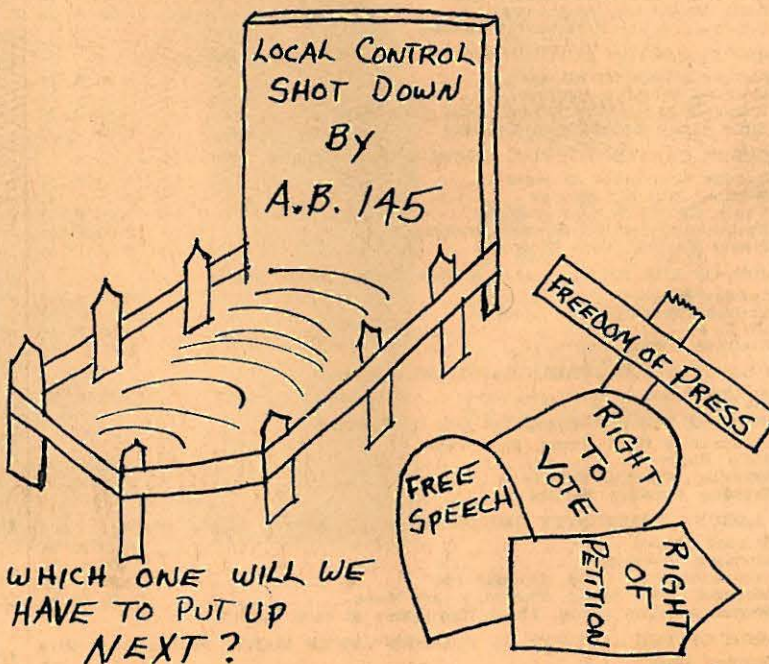

Under present State approved charges the Phone Company will offer the present 4-party line subscribers the option of either a 2-party line at $3.60 per month, or a single-party line at $4.90 per month.

Lemon Grove Vote Set for Oct. 13

The County Board of Supervisors, last Tuesday, after conferring with the Registrar of Voters and the County Counsel, set October 13 as the date for the vote on the proposed incorporation of Lemon Grove.

The Board had previously held a hearing at which petitions had been submitted by a number of property owners for the exclusion of their property from the proposed incorporation. At the close of the hearing, the Board eliminated approximately 1 1/4 square miles of area from the proposed five square miles, leaving 3 1/2 square miles within which the election will be held.

Away for his annual month holiday from his duties as minister of the Alpine Community Congregational Church, is Dr. Roger Larson who headed first for New York state. There he will visit Mr. and Mrs. J. Witeford, leaving them on the 29th of July. His next stop will be Rockford, Ill. where he will be the guest of Mrs. Floyd Morntson. He will wind up his trip with a visit to his mother, Mrs. S. J. Larson, in Portland, Ore., and arrive home in time to be back in the pulpit on Sunday, August 30.

During Dr. Larson's absence the pulpit will be tended by Mr. Edgar Welty of Lakeside.

There are two services each Sunday at this church. One at 9:45 a.m. and one at 11 a.m. Baby sitting is supplied in the nursery for parents of young children who wish to attend either service.

Beach Pollution Has Been Eliminated

For the first time in almost nine years every recreational beach along San Diego County's entire coastline is free of sewage contamination. Sewage that emptied into San Diego Bay in the past is now being treated and carried out to sea by the giant new metropolitan sewerage system.

The San Diego Metropolitan Public Sewer System now serves San Diego and these communities, Chula Vista, Imperial Beach, Coronado, Palm City, National City, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, Rolando, La Mesa, and El Cajon. The old sewage treatment plants have been closed in El Cajon, Spring Valley, Chula Vista, Palm City, and Imperial Beach.

The Crest Fire Department has conducted over 24 controlled burn-offs so far this month, with at least 14 more on the schedule. Chief Roger Dutton says, "People are finally beginning to realize the vital importance of getting their property cleaned up and all the dry leaves and brush burned off. A supervised burn-off by your Fire Department is your greatest insurance against the threat of fire. And the best way to be sure your policy remains in force is to teach your children that fire is not a toy to be played with."

County Tax May Not Increase

The County Auditor's office is now preparing the information required by the Board of Supervisors to set the tax rate for the next fiscal year. In order to establish a tax rate three factors are taken into consideration. First, the budget requirements; second, the amount, or surplus, left over from last year's taxes, and third, the amount of revenue that the County will receive from sources other than taxes.

The Auditor's office reports that from present figures available that the next year's tax rate will not exceed last year's rate.

By PETER ODENS

When the doctors told Beatrice Griscom that she had tuberculosis, she did not cry. The 20th Century had just begun and it was to be an exciting century, with automobiles, flying machines, new developments everywhere that she wanted to be part of. But there still were the wide open spaces, the forest and the mountains, and these must be hers above all if she wanted to get well.

She left her comfortable home in Coronado and went into the mountains east of San Diego. There, on a stretch of land on both sides of the Sweetwater river, she filed her homestead as she began to fight death which she did successfully for close to 40 years.

In 1960, when John Rognlie and his family bought the old Griscom homestead, they found several diaries which Beatrice had left behind and which portray her as a 20th Century pioneer who refused to acknowledge defeat until the very end.

Those who remember Beatrice Griscom say that she was a large woman who liked to wear coveralls made especially for her. Brought up in a fashionable home—her father was a physician—she appreciated the arts, the theater, and the movies and never refused a game of cards. But her deep love was for the outdoors, the fairyland scenery of her homestead as well as the storms and floods which plagued it. Time and again we come across the mention of the elements in her diary. The river was about to overflow its banks on January 2, 1936, but she called this "grand" because it was a grand spectacle. On March 25, it was "very cold but grand" and on April 3 and 4 it "stormed like fury—still stormed worse—but grand."

We could learn but little of the early years she spent alone on her homestead which she called "Wildwood Glen." Somehow, with the help of her friends and some hired hands, a house went up near the river. But for her who needed the open, fresh air, this house was meant to sleep in only when the fury of the weather forced her. Otherwise, she slept in a tree house some 12 feet above the ground.

A woman such as Beatrice Griscom could never be without visitors for long. She was too full of the joie de vivre. Although she was never married, she loved children and invited them to camp in Wildwood Glen. Various organizations began to accept her offer and visited Wildwood Glen for days at a time. Thus was born the idea of the summer camp as cabin after cabin, named romantically "Lupine," "Lilac," "Blue Jay," "Humpty Dumpty" became available for rent.

With all the work she had cut out for herself, Beatrice made frequent trips to San Diego and other places in California and wherever she went, she took in theater and movie shows, concerts and exhibits. But she seemed happiest when she was all by herself although there were many hard chores to be taken care of. Alone one day in February of 1936 she enjoyed the rain which poured down on her house and was, as she put it, "tired but happy—at peace with the world."

Singlehanded most of the time, she fought adversities. By the end of January, 1937, the temperature had gone down to eight degrees. Water pipes froze and burst. At the same time, one of her boarders, a man named Burges, was taken ill and had to be taken care of. Eventually, while the storm was howling, he had to be taken to the hospital in Paradise Valley. By February 6, rains set in and the river rose steadily. In her diary she expressed the fear that the electric motor might be damaged by the rising waters and so, the following day, she went for help.

THE ISSUES

The Republican National Convention, held in San Francisco earlier this month, nominated Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona as the Republican Presidential nominee, and Rep. William E. Miller of New York as the Republican Vice-Presidential nominee.

It required only one ballot to select the Presidential nominee, and only one ballot to select the Vice-Presidential nominee. The ballot for the Presidential nominee resulted in 883 votes for Goldwater, 214 for Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania, 114 for Governor Rockefeller of New York, and 98 votes were cast for five other candidates. The 883 votes for Goldwater represented over two-thirds of the votes of the Convention members.

Since the delegates to the Convention who cast these votes were selected by the usual procedure of selecting delegates to the National Convention by the members of the Republican Party back home, it seems logical that over two-thirds of the members of the Republican Party favored Goldwater as their nominee, and agreed with his principles and political philosophy which he had been shouting from the house tops for a long period of time.

However, up rose a group of so-called leaders of the Republican Party who had been holding themselves out as the disciples of the true principles of the Party who screamed to high heaven that the nomination of Goldwater was destroying the Republican Party.

From the sidelines it would seem that if over two-thirds of the registered Republicans advocated the candidacy of Goldwater, that this other group were the ones who were trying to destroy the Republican Party. In fact, each of the persons in this group have staunchly tried to out-welfare the Democratic Party in their endeavor to solicit votes and control and lead the Republican Party.

The most publicized leaders of the welfare group within the Republican Party include New York's Gov. Rockefeller and Senators Keating and Javits, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Michigan's Gov. Romney, and Vermont's Senator Aiken. They have protested Goldwater's nomination to high heaven and indicate that they may not campaign for his election.

Based on the results of the Convention, the two-thirds who supported Goldwater should drum these gentlemen out of the Republican Party and suggest that they join ranks with the Democrats or forever hold their peace.

This would then make a clear cut issue in the coming November election. Welfare state versus Free enterprise.

We are not suggesting that Free Enterprise would win. In fact we are of the opinion that the Welfare State will have more supporters. The last time that there was a clear issue on this same difference of philosophy was when Wendell Wilkie was the Republican nominee and he did not even get to first base. But it would be interesting to see how the voters stand on this point at the present time.

UNIFICATION

In this issue of the Echo are two letters to the Editor and a cartoon pertaining to the current educational fiasco in California.

The execution of the Legislative acts recently passed by the Legislature in regard to the unification of school districts has led to a great amount of discussion, debate, confusion, turmoil and disruption in the orderly process of the State's educational system.

The difficulty seems to be that the Legislature has passed laws which require that the school districts within the State decide in a wishy-washy way whether they wish to do something which most of them do not desire to do, and imposes a financial penalty on those districts which decide against any change.

It would have been far better for our educational system for the Legislature to have either passed a law making unification mandatory, or not having passed any law at all.

SWEET LAND OF LIBERTY

Under our form of government there are well-defined procedures for the establishment of laws, the enforcement of laws and the determination of the guilt or innocence of those charged with having violated the laws. The Constitution of the United States and of the individual States, among other things, guarantees certain rights which includes the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as long as it does not jeopardize the life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness of others.

The reports from a number of communities during recent weeks seem to indicate that something has gone wrong with the orderly process of government. It would appear that in such communities as St. Augustine, Harlem, Brooklyn, Rochester and several others, segments of our population have been taking the law into their own hands and disregarding the duly organized authorities.

Much has been said regarding these incidents, by the Federal, State and local officials, newspaper commentators and others. Many have stated that there was something wrong and that corrections should be made, but no one seemingly has come up with a statement as to what is wrong and what corrections should be made.

There seems to be no question but that many laws have been violated and that the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness of many innocent people has been been jeopardized and much property stolen or destroyed. Also, at this time there appears to be a doubt as to whether those charged with the enforcement of the laws in these communities can cope with these situations.

Only time will tell whether a satisfactory solution can be developed, or whether this country will come apart at the seams.

Intimate Glimpses

folded the handkerchief into triangle shape, she well might be a calculating hussy after his gold watch or even his diamond stick pin.

In moments of lady-like embarrassment the hanky tenderly patted the blushing brow and cheek. The frequent easy tears of that era were dabbed away with the bit of lace and linen. It was also an often used aid in flirting in the style of the day. A coy wave of the handkerchief could serve as a white flag of surrender in the battle of the sexes, which, says my mellowed kins-woman was definitely going on then as now, although with less obvious emphasis.

Finally I think the term "pick-up" originated with a hanky trick of long ago, before even my relative's day. I cannot find any authority on the subject, but it does seem most likely that it did, for then, the girl who wanted to meet the handsome stranger in town, could trip past the corner drug store, or wherever he was stationed to watch the passing scene and drop her handkerchief for him to pick up and return to her so they could meet. My aged cousin says this was definitely a wide-spread and very popular trick with the girls and women of her day, however it was considered a bold and forward thing to do. She admitted she had tried it.

Somewhere along the course of change that time conducts, the hanky dropping bit was eliminated. Still I am convinced that the "Pick-up" meeting of today got its name from the use of that dainty prop of the swooning gas light era. Cousin agreed with me and added, delicately patting her brow with a six-inch square of lavender scented linen and lace, "Yes, we dropped our handkerchiefs to be picked up. Nowadays the girls don't even drop their eyes."

ment as to how many horses will be entered in the two-day show. However, the work among the San Diego County horsemen indicate that the entry this year will exceed that of the past two years, and as last year's show was a big one as such shows go, this one promises to be outstanding. At press time this morning the hot weather we have been experiencing this past week seemed to have broken somewhat, and if the weather cools off by Saturday, this Alpine show could turn out to be one of the largest of the two-day shows in San Diego County this year.

A special committee has made arrangements for a party on Saturday night open to all exhibitors and spectators to be held at Bailey's Cafe starting at 7:30 p.m. at the low cost of $3.00 per person. The committee would appreciate advance reservations if possible from anyone interested in attending this get-together for the show judge and other officials. Reservations can be made at the Chamber office.

The Alpine Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of this annual Alpine event, offer the people of Alpine, the surrounding area, and each and every other person interested in horse shows, this opportunity to see a show featuring the best horses that San Diego County has to offer at absolutely no admission fee. It's free! Come out, enjoy yourself, see some beautiful horseflesh and excellent riding, and show the Chamber that their efforts to entertain you are appreciated.

The classes on Saturday start at 9:00 a.m. and include all the Western classes, with special classes for Alpine residents only, Quarter Horses, Palominos, Appaloosas, Morgans and Arabians.

The classes on Sunday start at 9:00 a.m. and include all the English, and Hunter and Jumper classes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

As per our telephone conversation on Friday regarding the article on the Four-Way Unification Plan in the July 23 issue, here is the part that needs explaining.

"If a majority of the voters in any of the districts disapproves they will remain in their present status and the balance of the districts will be unified."

This feature is known as the "inside-outside" vote and will be eliminated on August 22, 1964 when A. B. 145 (Unruh) becomes law. After this time a simple majority of the total area voting is all that will be required to pass a unification election. As the State School Board is not expected to consider the recommendation until September, this law will govern elections in this area. For example, the majority of the Alpine voters could vote NO and still become unified with Lakeside if the majority of the Lakeside voters cast a YES vote simply because Lakeside has several times as many voters.

Yours very truly,
Ronald Beidler

Dear Editor:

The Augmented County Committee on School District Organization held a wedding ceremony on Wednesday, July 22. The school districts of Jamul-Las Flores, Dulzura, Dehesa, and Barrett were given in unholy matrimony to Cajon Valley School District, under circumstances similar to a shotgun wedding.

Less than 30 minutes after the ceremony the principals involved had already started bickering. We refer to the Cajon Valley Board's trying to change the trustee arrangement from seven trustees elected from trustee areas to five trustees elected at large. The representatives of the other districts beat down this attempt with the help of the County Committee.

What will happen when we get out of the church and the minister is not there to referee?

The fact that the County Committee chose to ignore the petitions circulated in the Barrett, Dulzura and Jamul-Las Flores School Districts is similar to the man behind the shotgun ignoring the protests of one or both principals at a shotgun wedding.

Barrett, Dulzura and Jamul-Las Flores really didn't need this wedding.

In this union we are not allowed the option of a separation but the taxpayers will be paying alimony just the same.

Sincerely yours,
Ronald Beidler

Fire District had both asked the county maintain it.

The only property owner directly affected, Bird said, has access on Sweetwater and thus has no interest in maintaining Valley Vista.

Bird said improvements would still be the responsibility of the property owners who benefit.

The Alpine road to which Supervisor Bird refers is a portion of Eltinge Drive which a number of property owners petitioned the Board to have improved.

Octogenarian Celebrates Birthday

Mr. Fred Brown of Japatul Valley celebrated his 80th birthday last Saturday with a barbecue for about 80 friends, neighbors and relatives. Mr. Brown prepared the pit barbecue himself, and his wife, Gertrude, prepared enough of the trimmings that go with such a barbecue for the large group.

The scene of the barbecue was the ranch in Japatul Valley where Mr. Brown was born 80 years ago and where he has lived ever since. The 160 acre ranch was homesteaded by Mr. Brown's father when President Harrison was in office, and the homestead deed is signed by President Harrison. The ranch has always been a cattle ranch, and 80-year young Fred Brown is still operating it as a cattle ranch.

The present adobe ranch home was built by Mr. Brown's father, and the original room around which it was built was the tule house used as the first home on the ranch.

Fred's wife, Gertrude is well known in the area as one of the school teachers at the Descanso school, and she is the sister of Alpine's Doug Fordyce. Doug reports that he learned his prowess at bit barbecuing from his brother-in-law, Fred Brown.

Mrs. Helene (Bridgey) Allen is happily entertaining two old friends from New York state for the next three weeks. A girl friend whom she has known all her life, is Miss Lillian Ficke, of New York City, who made the flying trip west with Bridgey's sister-in-law, Mrs. Verna Eliman, also of New York City. The ladies had quite a mis-adventure on their trip out. The flight time for their plane was changed and they were not notified, with the result that their baggage arrived on the plane they were to have taken while they did not. They phoned Bridgey of their plight and arrived on the next plane hours later. This marks the second vacation phase for Bridgey this summer, since she has recently returned from a trip to Van Nuys, where she visited friends for two weeks.

The Women's Guild of the Community Church had their summer picnic Wednesday, July 29 at Rancho Viejas on Willows Road. Mrs. Eve Coppock, Guild president reports a nice turnout for the affair which was a pot-luck luncheon held at noon.

The Youth Center is doing a fine business in kids this summer, we are told. Bill Ossana, teacher at the Alpine school, has been in charge and welcomes 20 to 25 local kids each Monday through Friday. Monday is swim day. All the remainder of the week the Youth Center is open from 1 to 4 with Mr. Ossana on duty to supervise games and hobbies. Now that summer school is out this week it is expected that a larger group of local youth will find the facilities and companionship of the Youth Center agreeable.

John Bilsky left by jet last Friday for Ansonia, Conn., to attend the funeral of his father, John Bilsky, Sr., who passed away last Thursday evening. Mr. Bilsky, Sr., was 88 years old, and was taken to the hospital Thursday afternoon and passed away that same evening. John is back in Alpine after this short trip.

A number of Alpine couples attended the Tahitian party given by Makua at the Kona Kai last Saturday night. They were Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Cooper, Mr. and Mrs.

Al Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Al Wickens, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Parsons and Mrs. Bobbie Whitt. Mrs. Parsons is a member of Makua which is an auxiliary to the Children's Home Society of California. Everyone reports having a wonderful time at this fabulous party.

Dr. J. L. Collins of Alpine Heights Road is home recuperating from surgery to his arm which he injured some few months ago. He was changing a tire on his car when the car slipped off the jack and the jack handle caught him across his upper arm. After weeks of doctering and resting the arm which was very painful, surgery was required to mend the torn muscles.

The Baptist Church of Alpine is holding vacation Bible School for intermediates and juniors from August 3 to August 7 each evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Anyone interested may obtain further information by calling Mrs. Pratt Rix at 445-2275.

Carmen Hoistad and Olga Zuelke are enjoying the hospitality of the Charles Smiths of South Grade Road and enjoying their pool these hot summer days. Carmen's doctor advised her that swimming would be beneficial for her ankle which is still bothering her and which she sprained some months ago.

Dorothy and Phil Hall, of Tavern Road and the Alpine post office, are entertaining their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Tony Guiles, and their three small children this weekend. Dr. Guiles has passed his Boards which makes him a full fledged physician, and he will be on his way, with his family, for duty at Camp Lejeune Marine Base in North Carolina. Mrs. Guiles, Sue, is Dorothy Hall's daughter and grew up and attended school in Alpine.

Byrdine Rix who was married last May 9 to Robert Catlett of Claremont, Okla., when he was stationed with the Navy in San Diego, will leave today to join him in Honolulu where he is a diver working on marine repairs. The young couple were married by Rev. Bates of El Cajon who is a friend of the bride's family.

Virgil and Mary Wake took off this week with their children for a month's vacation visiting their families and friends in Oklahoma. Virgil has a new car equipped with air conditioning that will make the drive from here across the hot desert country comfortable and pleasant.

DESCANSO

By PAT MARTIN

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown of Japatul Valley entertained about 50 friends and neighbors on Saturday afternoon, with a pit barbecue to celebrate Fred's 80th birthday. A beautiful birthday cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Hendren, was served to the guests.

The WSCS wants to thank all those who contributed to the Dime and Dip dinner, and helped to make it a success. Everyone attending had a good time, with swimming and lots of good food.

An old-fashioned ice cream social, sponsored by the Chapel Crusaders will be held at the Chapel of the Hills on Saturday, August 15, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The proceeds will go toward the purchase of a movie projector for the church. Everyone is invited to attend.

The Altar Society and the Holy Men's Club are holding joint meetings on Tuesday evenings to complete plans for their annual barbecue, which will be held on Aug.

16 at Pair a Dice Park, from 12 until 6 p.m. Barbecuing will be done by Robert Garbani. The Garbani family has been in charge of cooking the meat for the barbecues for 26 years. Some of the plans for the day include square dancing, game booths, and a baking contest for the ladies.

Don't forget, Daily Vacation Bible School starts next Monday, Aug. 3, and will continue through Friday, Aug. 7, starting at 9 a.m. every morning. All children age three years and up are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garbani and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Granville Martin were among the many people who attended the Cowbells barbecue at Ramona Oaks in Ramona on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harvey of Lemon Grove were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Martin on Sunday.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Serafin during the past week were Mr. Serafin's nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Patterson and family of Denver, Colo. They also entertained their son, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Costantino, of La Jolla over the weekend.

Art Lovell, Gary and Kitty, of Lakeside, were visitors on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolin.

Several families have moved away from the community lately, Steve and Lillian Lewis and their family have moved to Santee. Lillian was active in the Altar Society, and will be greatly missed.

Smokey and Carolyn Harlin and daughters have moved into El Cajon. Smokey expects to be stationed in San Diego for quite a while. The Bakers will miss having their granddaughters, Linda and Jamie around the house.

Wayne and Kim Tilley and daughter, Kimberly and son, John, have moved to Santee after selling their home on River Rd. Good luck to all these families in their new surroundings.

PINE VALLEY

By LADONNA MUHLHAUSER

The Pine Valley Improvement Club will hold their monthly meeting on August first and at this time will install the new 1964 Officers.

Carl and Bertha Rogers are just home after a nice trip to Sequoia Park where they met the Bill Thornburgs and enjoyed a visit with their grandchildren.

It was wonderful to see Tex Jones back in the mountains. Since he and Lois have moved to Wilcox, Arizona don't see them very often.

Dr. Thais de Tienne, the daughter of Louise McCormick former postmaster of Guatay passed away last week. Miss de Tienne served in the Army Veterinarian Corps and received the Legion of Merit for development of new food dehydration methods. Our deepest sympathies go to Mrs. McCormick.

Our thoughts are also with Mrs. Amy Harvey who lost her mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Clarke last week. Mrs. Clarke was 91 years of age and a most wonderful woman. Although the Harveys have moved out of the valley our thoughts and best wishes are with them.

There is a question which has arisen! Several months ago Bob Kemp started working on the sign boards here in the valley and made the names all alike doing a very good job and it was a pleasure to look at his work at the corner of Harry Darsney's property. Over the past week someone has taken eight of those signs. Why? They aren't of any value except to the person whose name is on the board.

In the wake of the wanton destruction and vandalism in various ranches in the Monte Robles section of our community, comes a report that the building at the Young Christian Workers Camp where the Deerhorn Civic Club meeting are held was broken into last week. The incident was reported to the sheriff's office. We'll attempt to have more details next week.

A premature farewell and good luck from all the folks on the Hill to the Ashbrooks, who just recently moved into the cabin on Hugh and Sami Arledge's Happy Day Ranch. Glenna and Buddy just thought the area, community, and folks up here were great, but Buddy's heart condition rebelled against the elevation, we'll miss you.

We've probably all read or heard about Pete Hurkos, described in the papers as "the psychic Dutchman" or "the mental Houdini," who appeared down at the Russ Auditorium a week ago Sunday, well, it seems one of his first subjects that evening was Dave Barnum, master well digger of Monte Robles Acres. Hurkos informed Dave that his daughter had had her tonsils removed a week ago (correct), and that he should

But as she returned, the peaceful river had turned into a furious storm, had overflowed its banks and washed away the motor and all but one of her trees.

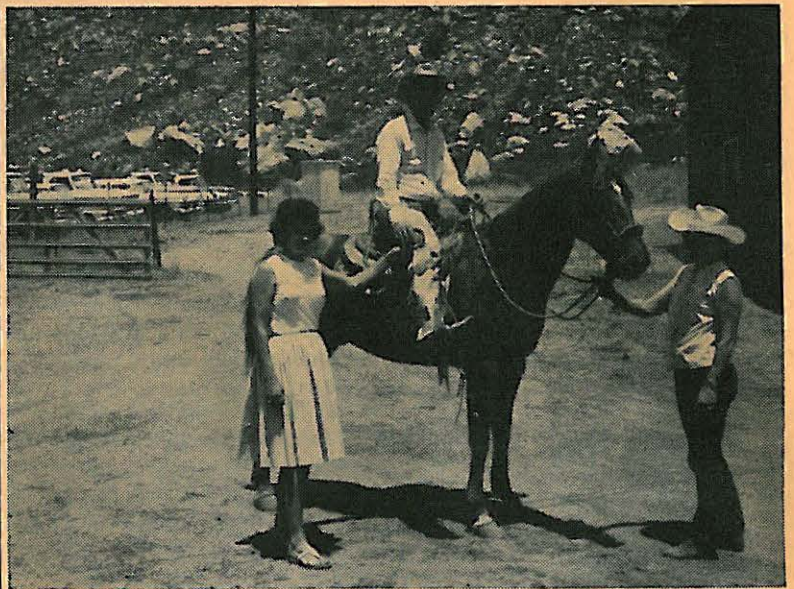

Beatrice Griscom conquered tuberculosis, but other troubles began to wear her down. She had occasional difficulties with her heart, was found anemic and had low blood pressure. Every now and then, depression hit her such as the day when, in the heat of summer, she "made a scene in the evening . . . and Berter (a helper) resigned." Then she was "sick of life and all broken up—seem such a failure."

But these spells did not last long, and by 1944, at the age of 75, she went on an extensive trip to Montana. She arrived there on February 19 with the temperature at 20 below zero. She slept with the window open even though the mercury dropped to 35 below zero, and on February 20 she learned to ride horseback and to ski, rode a bulldozer and had "a wild snow fight with three boys." Then, she was at the zenith of her life.

Two years later, Beatrice was operated on at Scripps Memorial Hospital. The diagnosis—cancer. With the added expense for treatments, financial difficulties set in until she got a loan for which she was "deeply thankful." Slowly, she recovered and her entries in her diaries showed some of the old spirit, the old enthusiasm, but not for long. In 1949, we find fewer and fewer entries. In January, the branches of the trees in Wildwood Glen were breaking under the weight of the snow which had settled some 15 inches deep on the ground. Beatrice filled a tub with snow and pulled it into her kitchen, allowed it to melt and took a bath in it—a last gesture of defiance.

On June 8, she had to go to the doctor again and found out that she had a recurrence of cancer. "Pretty blue," her diary says, "very blue—couldn't see the light." Methodically, she put her place in order for the time she was to be in the hospital for treatment. By June 24, she returned home, but not for long.

She was 80 years old and she died, a woman who loved life to the fullest, who loved nature, and who once wrote down in her diary a sentence which impressed her deeply: "Nobody who is somebody looks down on anybody."

The Teenage Club elected new officers to preside for the next six month period. Richard Sample, president; Charlie Page, vice-president; Jean Ferguson, secretary-treasurer, and Mickey Wise as sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Edna Rice checked into El Cajon Valley Hospital Monday morning where she will undergo some tests. We are pulling for the results of those tests to be negative so that you can turn right around and come home, Edna.

The Cootie and Cootiettes held their 5th area picnic, last Sunday, in Felicita Park, near Escondido. The 5th area consist of Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino, and San Diego counties. The Charlie Cobbs and the Bob Zimmreman family attended and had a most enjoyable day. The five Zimmerman children walked off with six participation prizes, and Barbara told me that their four year old daughter took the watermelon eating prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Carbaugh, of Lingle Drive, entertained fourteen members of the family at a buffet dinner, last Sunday evening.

Hereford steer was Mrs. Robert Finnegan of Lemon Grove whose husband is the owner of Finn's Electric in that area. The second ticket drawn won the prize-winning ewe lamb and was held by Gordon White of Ramona. White's children decided to keep the lamb and use her for the beginning of a breeding program and as a pet. Their decision made Leslie Tullock, 4-H Club member who had raised the lamb as her project this year, very happy.

Alex Barron of El Cajon entertained the crowd under the big oaks with his guitar playing and singing. Alex was joined by a number of the men and women in impromptu duets, quartets, sextets and full choruses to further add to the enjoyment of the audience.

Doris Floyd of La Mesa showed a large selection of her oil paintings and sketches of landscapes and seascapes on the lawn under the shady oaks. Many of her works were offered for sale and she donated a portion of her sales to the Cowbelles.

Other members of the Cowbelles ran a general store at which they sold a very large variety of interesting merchandise, including copies of Dorothy Clark Schmid's recently published book, "Pioneering in Dulzura."

This annual barbecue is the main fund-raising event of the year for the San Diego Cowbelles, and the proceeds are used for the various charitable works of this group which include 4-H Club activities, donations to the Door of Hope, and scholarship for girls in home ec.

An added attraction at the barbecue was a cutting horse contest conducted by the California Cutting Horse Association with cutting horses coming from as far away as Santa Barbara and Riverside. Area horses competed from Ramona and Valley Center. The cutters enjoyed the lively, active cattle, and the spectators enjoyed the excellent work of some of the top cutting horses in California

The Roger Duttons were paid a visit last week from Donna's twin cousins, Cheryl Lou and William Barker of Kalamazoo, Michigan. Cheryl Lou is a hostess with United Airlines, and brother Bill has recently been discharged from the U.S. Air Force. It was the first time Donna has seen the twins in 13 years.

Mrs. James Luck (Betina) of 200 Highline Trail is home and recuperating after spending five days in El Cajon Valley Hospital, undergoing treatment for an injured back. Betina informs us with regret that she will be forced to resign as Ways and Means chairman for the Crest PTA. Betina says, "It would be eally wonderful if someone would volunteer to serve in my place, as Ways and Means is in charge of the annual Hallowe'en Carnival, and we wouldn't want our Crest kids to have to miss their biggest yearly fun-night."

Last call and last chance to get your reservations in for the PTA bus trip scheduled for Tuesday, August 4. Donation for the all-day fund raising affair will be $6.50, which will cover transportation and admissions to the famous Wax Museum, and a visit to Knotts Berry Farm. Any profit will go to the PTA treasury for next year's activities. For reservation, call Doris Randall at 442-8403. Have fun, and help your school at the same time.

The volunteer workers of the Crest Thrift Shop happily announce that Fire Chief Roger Dutton is giving them the use of the small building behind the Crest Post Office. The building on Eucalyptus Boulevard, where the Shop has served the Crest for three years, was sold, and the Shop's sponsors, the Altar Society of the Church of Saint Louise de Marillac, were desperate for some place to go. They plan to open at the new location Wednesday, August 5. The hours will remain the same, with the Thrift Shop open for business from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday each week.

The Misses Louise and Julia Nosbonne, 129 Albatross Place, "bussed" to L.A. recently to visit with the many friends in that vicinity. Headquarters for the five day vacation was in the home of Mrs. Martha Tourigny, a former San Diegan.

Gary Hout and Johnny Raifsnider blew out candles on a double birthday cake Wednesday. They were forced to retreat to a car to do so, however, to avoid the winds of Santa Clara Point, Mission Beach, where the party was held. The beach party crowd consisted of brothers and sisters, enough to raise a rowdy cheer for the newly turned 12 year olds.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foster, La Cresta Blvd., were hosts last weekend to Mrs. Fosters cousin, Miss Mary McIntee, of North Dakota, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. I. S. McIntee of L.A. The week before the Fosters enjoyed a visit from long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Everets of Costa Mesa, during which time a reunion of mutual friends was highlighted by a polka party at Turners Hall, San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stead of Sage Drive held a family barbecue Sunday for the Stead side of the clan. Mrs. Stead, Judy, said the gathering consisted of tiny ones up to Paul's Grandmother, who is 80 plus years young.

ALPINE GARDENER

By JEAN McCULLOUGH

The job that occupies our time more fully than anything else these days is trying to keep everything watered and the faded blooms removed from geraniums, fuchsias, succulents, etc. It is high time to gather those statice, strawflowers and any other everlasting. Hang them upside down suspended from a line in a darkened place free from drafts until they are thoroughly dry for your winter bouquets. Pay special attention to those chrysanthemums now, staking them up, keep them well-watered and fertilized, only withhold fertilizer when buds begin to show color. Geraniums that have grown tall and leggy should be cut back and fertilized and watered well to encourage new growth and new blossoms.

There are so many plants and shrubs which need rejuvenating at this time of year. I read in a garden magazine recently to try the combination of a cupful of washing ammonia to a pailful of water as a side dressing for that late lettuce crop, or any other leafy vegetables, to give them a pickup. Almost anything is worth trying to prolong our supply of vegetables from our own gardens.

If you happen to contemplate changes in your garden arrangement this fall, why not use a divider between your vegetable section and the part you wish for fruit trees? A stout trellis with berry vines or grape vines trained on it, both of which grow very well here in Alpine. Boysenberry or Youngberry, and a number of grapes that do well here. They are Muscat, Perlette or Delight, also others. Inquire of your nurseryman for this locality.

month, 8 a.m. to noon. Don't wait till then, though. Pfahler urges that you come out to the range August 8, 8 to noon, and see what's offered. Last Sunday he had 67 youngsters, from as far as La Jolla and Alpine, on the firing line, and four inquiring parents attended. For the Sept. 12 class 35 will be accepted, boys and girls, 12 to 18, and already there's a waiting list of 18, so sign them up and fill out the application when you visit the range. Dues for the first year are $1.75, plus a 25c registration fee for each visit to the range. There is a very reasonable charge for the NRA Jr. Handbook each club member will need. Ammo is obtainable from the club. Safety is stressed. Ten safety rules must be memorized, and one of the instructors who teaches a course in hunters' safety will be on hand to teach it to members. Those getting a hunting license, if under 18, must pass this course, so this is a valuable feature of the classes. Firing will start the second time out and activities include a check of the eye-picture, and in time competition. Contact Pfahler at 224-8759 if necessary, but take his advice and come out next Sunday.

The new owners of Mountaindale ranch, formerly the Paul Egans, are Al and Mary McWreath. Long-time residents of the San Diego area, they operate The Hut on 94 and are well-known in business circles. Al, now on sick leave, is in heavy equipment.

Cliff Mangels, El Cajon Hayseed salesman, has eight brothers and sisters, all but one of whom live in the San Diego area.

Karen Connors became 17 Sunday, July 27. She spent Saturday night with friends at the Irv. Wache house. Linda and Janet Wache, Betty Dutton and Karen Anderson helped her celebrate with a cake baked by one of the girls.

The Colombos had as their house guests this past week Madeline's sister, Mary, of Scottsdale, Ariz. and her four children. Mary's a teacher, and had just finished a summer course before coming.

Handy Household Hints

(For Harried Homemakers)

Empty butter cartons are fine for molding and storing cookie dough in the refrigerator. The cartons some waxed so they need no greasing. In addition, when the dough is sliced for cookies, each will be uniform in size.

Fancy custards are a cinch. To make rennet custard, add a teaspoon of sherry. To chocolate custard, add instant coffee powder, then rum extract. To chocolate custard, add almond extract for an exotic flavor.

If your brown sugar has hardened, rub the solid chunk of sugar back and forth against a kitchen grater placed over a bowl. A kitchen sieve does the trick, too.

Measure molasses the easy way. First dip measuring cup full of flour. Empty it back into flour sack and you leave a coating that prevents molasses from sticking to the glass. Every drop will come out cleanly.

Do it the easy way when you melt chocolate, too. Grease the pan you are going to use, it makes dishwashing a breeze. Or melt the chocolate in a little cup made by you out of two thicknesses of aluminum foil.

For your very special cakes, it pays to frost smoothly first with a thin layer of frosting, to hold down any crumbs, and to give an even base coat. When set or firm, the final frosting will spread much more evenly and easily.

COKE'S KITCHEN

At a patio party the other evening, our hostess cooked pork roast on the spit and accompanied her dinner with baked potatoes, barbecued fresh corn, mixed bean salad, hot rolls and the prettiest patio cake I've seen in ages. I'll let you in on a little secret, it was "Coke's birthday and the dinner was a complete surprise.

The cake was frosted with two sliced bananas, a cluster of seedless grapes, whole strawberries, sliced peaches and covered with a thin layer of clear lemon gelatin. Almost too pretty to eat and so appropriate for a garden party.

In case you are interested, Micki cooked her corn on the cob this way: First she shucked the corn, being careful not to remove husks, wash corn, pull husks back up and cover entire cob with aluminum foil. She then placed the corn directly on coals and turned them a quarter of a turn every two minutes or so. Cooking process took no more than 10 minutes.

Before I go—another cooking hint I learned this week. If you like to experiment with flavors, pour a small amount of "Wishbone" salad dressing directly on corn before cooking in foil. My friend does the same thing to a baked potato—pour one tsp. "Wishbone" over potato before baking in foil—hope you try it.

MIXED BEAN SALAD

Pour boiling water over all beans to wash juices off then combine one large can of green beans, wax beans and one or two cans of red kidney beans. Add one small onion, one green pepper (diced fine), half cup wine vinegar and one cup cooking oil, two stalks celery (chopped) some pickle juice and one or two diced sweet pickles, three-quarter cup sugar, one tsp. salt and a dash of pepper. Mix all of the above, let set for one day then place in covered dish in refrigerator. Stir once in a while. Delicious with meats, etc.

WESTERN CORN ON THE COB

4 or 5 ears sweet corn
½ cup soft butter or margarine
1 T prepared mustard
1 tsp. prepared horseradish
1 tsp. salt
dash freshly ground pepper
snipped parsley

Husk corn and strip off the silk, spread each ear with a little horseradish butter. Wrap each loosely in foil and bake in very hot oven (450) 20 to 25 minutes. Horseradish butter, combine butter, mustard, horseradish, salt and pepper, cream till light and fluffy. Sprinkle extra butter with parsley and pass with corn.

DEHESA

By KATHRYN HEINZ

John Willson was rushed to Grossmont Hospital Sunday. Grandpa Willson as he is affectionately called by friends and neighbors, overexerted himself the past week. Grandpa is in Room 333 and would enjoy receiving cards and letters.

A shaggy poodle dog belonging to Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Potter was kicked by their horse Saturday evening. The dog suffered a concussion and received extensive lacerations.

Susie Bennett and Wilma Thompson, members of Granite Hills High School Hand and Flag Corps have been attending practice being held at 11th and C Street in San Diego the past week.

A two-month-old Brahma calf strayed or was taken from the Bill Rigler ranch at 3447 Dehesa Road Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heinz and sons, and Wilma Thompson attended the annual picnic of OK Ingram VFW and Mission Valley VFW Posts at Admiral Baker Field in Mission Gorge Sunday.

Katie Nowak returned to her grandparents' home in Santa Barbara after spending the weekend at home visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harvey.

Susie Bennett purchased a German shepherd dog Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Anderson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gettenker and daughter, and Edward Meiersinger of El Cajon were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson and family spent Sunday at the beach at Silver Strand State Park.

Glenn Stover, teacher at the Dehesa School called at the John Heinz residence Tuesday. He and his family have just returned from a vacation in Sequoia National Park and he has enrolled in a special Spanish class and plans to teach his fourth and fifth grade pupils Spanish this coming school year. Just in case any of the children are enjoying their vacation too much—school starts September 14.

Judy Howell was a Tuesday visitor at the John Bennett home. Susie and Judy have been making bathing suits and sewing summer wear on her weekly visits.

Alpine Fire Board

Continued from Page 1 and the rating determined, Mr. Paulson states that a report will be made to the District outlining recommendations on the proper type of equipment for the District, the type of courses that should be offered the volunteer firemen pertaining to fire control, and suggested rules and regulations for the operation of the District.

Mr. Paulson pointed out that the establishment of a well-trained fire department with proper fire fighting equipment results in a better fire rating within the District, which in turn reduces the fire insurance rate in addition to offering a better protection to the property of the residents in the District. The Alpine volunteer firemen are well-trained now in the use of all of the types of equipment now available to them in the District. Other types of courses would be necessary when new types of equipment are obtained.

The Commissioners previously agreed to withhold the purchase of any capital equipment until after the Fire Rating Bureau study has been made and their report received.

replace a cracked window on the north side of his home in National City to stop the rain, what rain? from coming in (also correct). Dave's commend, "he ain't no fake."

A very brief reminder for next week the vacation's over on the Civic Club meeting so we'll see you all a week from Friday, August 7, at the YCW Camp building.

Seen about our community the latter part of last week, staying at their folks, Marila and Otto Becker of Fletcher Hills ranch, were Analee and Jim Hagan, their family and friends, of Point Loma.

Also up for a long weekend visiting her children and grandchildren at Deerhorn Valley Ranch was Marta Krause of Spring Valley. Other friends and neighbors dropping in during the week included Bill and Sally Grogan, Elly Freeman, Ralph Okey, and Earl Woodhouse.

Latest word from Clarence "Cec" and Win Sellers is that Win's eldest son, Bill Briggs, of National City, will be tying the nuptial knot with Kay Hicks, of San Diego, next Saturday in Las Vegas.

Talking about Las Vegas, Herb Evans, of Monte Robles Acres, who's been making the run to Vegas for Acacia Cabinets of Spring Valley, claims what we considered summer-weather this past weekend as cool.

Speaking of Monte Robles Acres, Annie Erickson from thataway is sporting a brand, spanking-new Datsun pick-up, following the trend set by Joe and McDuff Vallee of Crow-Vallee Ranch, 'cepting she's done 'em one better with a little campster on the bed.

If your mail's loused up, and comes to you via San Quentin, it's no reflection on you—but as this column suggested about a year ago, use your zip number. There's a town called Tamal near Big Q, and with hand-writing what they are today, well. To avoid the detour use, Jamul, California 92035.

Dulzura - Barrett Junction

By GENNIE WALKER

The Mt. Empire Farm Bureau held a meeting at Camp's Grove last Thursday. Red Holcomb, as usual, turned out some delicious burgers and weiners. Desserts and salads were brought by the ladies. Chairman Charlotte Holcomb dispensed with the business meeting and turned the rest of the evening over to Mr. Ben Bevans of Escondido. He showed us some beautiful slides of his hunting trip in Colorado. We enjoyed it all very much. Had an unusually good turnout with about 35 persons attending the meeting.

Also on last Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Aird, former Dulzurians, came for a visit. They moved to Cedar Rapids, Mich., a number of years ago, but in the near future we will have them back, because they said so. We were all happy to see them, but missed seeing their children.

We who were fortunate enough to go to the Cowbelle's barbecue had a splendid full-tummy time at the Ramona Oaks picnic grounds. It was especially nice to see Jack Schrade, and especially after his dangerous elevator ride. But he looked kind of lonesome without the Missus. We're all looking forward to next year's affair.

Tina Rasmussen held a welcome home party yesterday for her sister, Margaret Thompson, who has been on a joyous trip north. Also included in the homecoming was Mr. MacPherson who does portrait and landscape painting. He is back from a trip to Guadalajara. Another guest was a friend visiting from Sacramento. Tina operates a quietly serene place called the Sunrise Lodge. You all come.

We hear that Bill and Ruth Gregory went to the races at Del Mar on opening day Tuesday. Did you win anything?

The Dulzura 4-H turkey shoot which was to be held on August 16 has been changed to be held on the 23rd. The shoot will be at Camp's Grove in Dulzura.

Gloria D'Scala is getting along fine after her mishap on Highway 94. She flipped her jeep over recently and was knocked unconscious herself, but her 7-year-old son, Neal, was uninjured and called for help by honking the horn. Mrs. Eleanor Duke, who lives close to the scene of the accident, came to the rescue.

We regret the loss of another friend in Dulzura. L. A. Jones passed away last Sunday morning, leaving his widow and two children. Mrs. Tilda Humphrey's brother died in a rest home in San Diego this week, and C. A. Robert lost his father who resided in Chula Vista. Our deep sympathy to these people in their bereavement.

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

ROBERT McDONALD, Sacto.—"I can remember when men removed their hats when the flag passed in a parade, but this respect has been lost, and so will our country if we don't change."

CHARLES KUSHINS, Oakland—"The world has become small very suddenly. Let's begin to like each other everywhere, instead of building up hatreds."

PATTY TOWNSEND, Sacramento—"Cats aren't better than dogs. Dogs are happy and care-free. Cats are snobs."
